Red China Downs U. S. B29, Grabs 11 Of Its Crew

Bitter Propaganda Blast
Poured Out By Premier, Rapping Yank 'Extension' Of Orient War

TOKYO (AP)—Red China's No. 2 boss charged today that a U. S. B29 Superfort violated Manchurian skies Jan. 12 and was shot down by Communist night fighters.

U. S. Far East Air Forces confirmed the loss of the bomber but asserted it was 12 to 15 miles inside North Korea, well below the Yalu River boundary of Manchuria, when crippled.

"The B29 transmitted a 'Mayday' distress signal and it is assumed it was shot down at that point," said an official FEAF announcement.

The Reds alleged the B29 was shot down nine miles northwest of Antung, big Communist airbase across the Yalu from Korea.

Peiping radio broadcast the charge and an angry protest by Red China's Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En-lai. It quoted him as saying 11 crewmen, including a colonel and a major, were captured and that three other crewmen "died after parachuting."

CHOU IS second only to Mao Tse-tung in the Chinese Communist regime. Broadcasting his protest, which came on the heels of an earlier propaganda charge, underlined the importance the Reds attached to the accusation.

"The Chinese people are furious over this violation of our skies," Chou was quoted. "The American government... has planned dangerous preparations to enlarge the war in the last two months."

"The Central People's Government of the Chinese People's Republic recognizes that the plans being adopted by the American government are not only affecting the Far East but are threatening to the peace of the world."

Chou charged that U. S. planes "violated our northeastern skies" three other times in the past two months "on Nov. 28, Dec. 8 and Dec. 12." It is an old propaganda charge. Allied pilots are under strict orders not to cross the Yalu River, not even if engaged in furious air combat.

The Air Force said the B29 in question "was on a regularly scheduled mission dropping psychological warfare news leaflets over North Korean cities" on the night of Jan. 12.

"The aircraft was plotted and followed throughout its flight by friendly radar stations," said the announcement. "When over a town approximately 12 to 15 miles south of the Yalu River, the B29 'plot' merged on the radar screens with the plots of 12 hostile fighter aircraft."

"IT DISAPPEARED from radar contact immediately with the fighter plots. The B29 carried no high explosive bombs. A normal B29 crew of 14 officers and airmen were aboard."

The announcement did not rule out the possibility the Superfort might have glided into Manchuria after it was hit.

The Air Force confirmed the names of three of the crewmen whom the Communists said were captured after the four-engine bomber was shot down.

They were Col. John Knox Arnold Jr. (hometown not available), Maj. William H. Baumer of Lewisburg, Pa., and Capt. Eugene Vaadi of Clayton, N. Y.

Chou's statement identified Arnold as commander of the 581st Air Resupply Communications Wing of the U. S. 13th Air Force; and Baumer as operations officer of the 91st Squadron, Yokota, Japan.

In Washington, the Defense Department said it was presumed the Communist broadcasts referred to one of two B29s acknowledged lost in North Korea last week in air combat. Those were the first Superforts lost since Sept. 20.

Starling Horde Has Custodian Fully Baffled

LOVINGTON, N. M., (AP)—Jesse Benson figures he'll just have to get a grip on his patience and wait until the starlings leave.

The normally mild-mannered courthouse custodian has just had his annual go-round with the Lea County Commission about the pests. He'll have to bear with the raucous screams of the speckled birds until they decide they like some place else better.

The session with the commission started quietly enough.

"Jesse," asked Commissioner Carl Denson, "what have you done about those starlings?"

Jesse rose from his chair, staring at the commission with a glare usually reserved for those who walk on public lawns.

"I've thought about them. I've dreamed about them. And I've called to the Lord about them," Jesse declared.

"Every morning at daylight they leave those trees and I take hope. Then, every evening they return and bring back a lot of friends from West Texas."

"I have come to think that starlings were just created to co-operate with county commissioners in driving custodians crazy."

"We tried shooting them with a shotgun, but you shoot 18 and up in the air go 999,982 live ones, laughing fit to kill. We tried Roman candles. They got used to them, and now I think they bring their friends up from Old Mexico to see the fireworks."

"How about putting aluminum owls in the trees," Denson asked.

"These birds of ours wouldn't be afraid of stainless steel owls," opined Jesse. "I think they got crossed with eagles. They just plain ain't afraid of anything."

Flu-Like Disease Hits Half Of States, But It's Mild

By The Associated Press
Flu, or what feels like flu, has spread into more than half the 48 states, but the outbreaks so far generally have been mild.

The Army, a state university, a steel company and some local officials have taken steps to combat the infections with vaccine. Bulk of cases is in the central part of the nation. Texas, Tennessee and Arkansas have been particularly hard hit.

Texas reported from 200,000 to 250,000 flu cases. Arkansas had the greatest number of cases of upper respiratory infections in its history. The disease was reaching the epidemic stage in Tennessee.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. announced it is giving flu shots to its 44,000 employees in Pittsburgh; Aliquippa, Pa., and Cleveland Mills, at its New York and Michigan ore mines and at various fabricating plants throughout the country. The treatments are voluntary.

In Ohio, where the incidence so far is low, Ohio State University is planning a voluntary flu immunization program to run through next week.

Vaccine also was administered at the Syracuse (N. Y.) School for Mental Defectives and at the Cook County jail in Chicago.

The reports indicate at least one type flu bug (A-prime) is responsible for some of the outbreaks. Some health authorities believe several types of minor virus infections are involved.

VATIN CITY (AP)—An attack of influenza and fever confined Pope Pius XII to bed today. All his audiences were suspended.

KINGS PARK, N. Y. (AP)—Seventeen male patients early today smashed their way out of Kings Park State Hospital, a mental institution, and 11 were reported recaptured within a few hours.

TOKYO (AP)—Peiping radio carried this Communist comment on President Eisenhower's inaugural address: "Nauseating hypocrisy."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Aiken (R-Vt.) says the Senate Agriculture Committee may start public hearings next week into whether grain prices have been depressed by "sharp trading and improper practice."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lawson Butler, notorious West coast bandit, today was added to the FBI's list of "ten most wanted men."

Benson Streamlining U. S. Agency For Better Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, in his first official act, today regrouped agricultural department agencies to secure "better and more effective coordination."

This regrouping, he said, is the forerunner of a "gradual streamlining" of the department designed to bring about economy and greater efficiency.

In announcing the changes in a formal statement, the new GOP administration farm chief took a jab at the size to which the Democratic predecessors had built the department.

"The U. S. Department of Agriculture, largest of all the nation's civilian agencies, swollen into a huge bureaucracy of 20 agencies and bureaus in the last 20 years, is getting a major overhauling," the state said.

In a separate memorandum to department employees the new secretary served notice he would expect them to give a "full day's work for a day's pay."

The department agencies and bureaus were divided into four major groups, with the office of solicitor maintaining its present independent status.

Today's action in itself did not have the effect of reducing the number of employees or of eliminating any of the department's present activities.

Major groups, the officials who will head them, and the agencies in each, were set up as follows: Commodity marketing and adjustment: John H. Davis, president of the Commodity Credit Corp. — Commodity Credit Corp., Commodity Exchange Authority, Federal Crop Insurance Corp. and Production and Marketing Administration (except agricultural conservation programs branch).

Agricultural credit: Romeo E. Short, assistant to the secretary — Farm Credit Administration, Farmers Home Administration, and Rural Electrification Administration.

Research, extension and land use: J. Earl Coke, assistant secretary. (Continued on Page Two)

GEN. CLAY TIPPED AS DEFENSE CHOICE

Creedon, Veteran Detective, Joins Slaying Investigators

James J. Creedon, veteran detective especially well known in Circleville was hired Thursday to "help bring out the true facts" in the slaying of Daniel Ruff Jr.

Creedon, former member of the Columbus city detective bureau, has been retired for several years.

During and since his service with the Columbus department, he has handled many homicide and other types of cases.

He will investigate on behalf of the defense.

Ruff, widely known Pickaway county farmer, was found slain in his bed Jan. 15 in the Ruff home near South Bloomfield. His tall, 34-year old wife, Mary Agnes Ruff, is being held in Pickaway County jail on an accusation of first degree murder.

Taking two children with her, Mrs. Ruff drove the family car to the home of her mother in Columbus after the slaying. She has said she "doesn't remember" shooting her husband.

ANNOUNCEMENT of Creedon's entrance into the tense and confused picture of the tragedy came after he conferred with Pickaway County Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff and Joe Adkins, chief defense counsel.

Creedon arrived in Circleville before dawn Thursday. He lives in Groveport.

The detective is especially well known in this community through his special work for the annual Pumpkin Show. He has been serving as special detective at the festival for the last quarter-century.

"Mr. Creedon's only purpose here at this time is to try and bring out the true facts," a statement issued by defense counsel said.

It was believed one of the first moves to acquaint Creedon with details and background of the case will be to have him visit the scene of the slaying, a small white farmhouse on Route 23 about two miles north of South Bloomfield.

Sheriff Radcliff, meanwhile, took cognizance of increasing interest in the case here by emphasizing the role of his department. He said:

"THE SOLE interest our department has in this case is, naturally, only to bring out the facts—and to leave the facts decide what action is taken."

"A woman has been accused of first degree murder because there is evidence to support that accusation. If, on the other hand, we find evidence against the accusation as it now stands, we will of course bring that out, too."

"I want to emphasize to the public that we—as officers sworn to uphold the law—cannot have a personal feeling in the case beyond what the concrete evidence dictates."

"We will continue to investigate this case—which has many angles—with all the facilities at our command, and we will do it strictly on the line of facts as we find them."

"We cannot and we will not be swayed by rumors. The taxpayers didn't hire us to do that."

In developments of the case itself, there was little to be officially announced since Mrs. Ruff was permitted to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Rose Weir. Mrs. Weir died of a heart attack Sunday in a Columbus hospital.

NO RESULTS have been announced on ballistic tests made in Columbus shortly after the shooting. Two slugs taken from the victim's head were to have been compared with markings made by a revolver found among Mrs. Ruff's belongings when she was taken into custody.

Mrs. Ruff said she bought the revolver nearly two years ago with her husband's knowledge.

Announcement of results from the ballistic tests may come Friday. Sheriff Radcliff, along with Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer and Ray Davis, special assistant prosecutor, planned to go to Columbus Thursday afternoon.

Sheriff Radcliff said he visited the Ruff home again Wednesday night to seek information needed to clear up a number of unexplained parts of the story. He had no announcement to make in connection with his latest questioning.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The annual parade of Cabinet officers to Capitol Hill starts today, with new Secretary of State John Foster Dulles leading the way.

Dulles had a "get acquainted" date with the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Friday, Ezra Benson, secretary of agriculture, has a similar appointment with the House Agriculture Committee.

For both men it will be their first appearance before congressional committees since joining President Eisenhower's Cabinet. They and all other cabinet appointees but Charles E. Wilson, not yet formally nominated to be secretary of defense, were sworn in Wednesday after being confirmed by the Senate.

The Senate Commerce Committee, looking into last Thursday's wreck of the runaway train at Washington's Union Depot, continued its public hearings. The House Un-American Activities Committee set up a meeting to organize.

DULLES' SESSION with representatives focused attention on a major State Department policy split resulting partly from his appearance before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last Thursday.

Dulles told the senators that containment of communism is unsound and "bound to fail because a purely defensive policy never wins against an aggressive policy."

He added that "we must always have in mind the liberation" of satellite peoples and said this could be spurred peacefully "by moral pressures, by the weight of propaganda."

George Kennan, the State Department's top Russian expert, said the next day in a speech in Scranton, Pa., that a governmental effort to promote the disintegration of Soviet power would be inconsistent with "our international obligations" and might saddle the U. S. with "heavy responsibilities."

He gave wife haircut, is jailed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The crew haircut that Mineola Lloyd received is going to be quite expensive for her husband James.

Lloyd was sentenced Wednesday to serve 180 days in jail for giving her husband the haircut. She didn't ask for it. Lloyd, arrested on a charge of battery and disturbing the peace, testified his wife had been drinking and running around and he wanted to keep her home.

School Kids Due For Data On Tax

CLEVELAND (AP)—About 60,000 Cleveland school kids are going to learn about income taxes Friday.

The Board of Education's radio station, WBOE, will broadcast a 15-minute program explaining forms used in tax collection.

Statistics show between 40 and 45 per cent of the nation's senior and junior high school pupils make enough during vacations so that they must fill out forms.

Wilson Dispute May Turn Ike To Old Friend

GOP Senators Tell President Ex-G. M. Boss Must Sell Stock

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Lucius Clay, President Eisenhower's former chief of staff in Europe, was reported today under consideration for the defense post if the Senate does not confirm Charles E. Wilson.

Informed sources said Clay is Eisenhower's likely second choice for the top Cabinet post.

They said Clay would present a problem in that the regulations forbid anyone to serve as defense secretary who has been in the Army within 10 years prior to appointment.

The Senate can set this rule aside as it did some years ago to make it possible for Gen. George Marshall to serve in that position.

Clay, a native of Marietta, Ga., has retired from the Army.

Some Republican senators have sent word to Eisenhower that the Senate would probably reject Wilson as new defense secretary if he holds on to his stock in his former firm, General Motors.

Indications were that the White House would make a decision within a day or two. Senate leaders insisted they did not know what the decision would be.

"IT'S UP TO THEM," Republican Leader Taft of Ohio told reporters, referring to the new President and his advisers. "My job is to get them (presidential appointees) confirmed when they send them down here."

Taft late Wednesday won voice confirmation of eight new Cabinet members, all except the defense secretaryship, for which Eisenhower has not made a formal nomination.

A few hours later each of the eight took the oath from Chief Justice Vinson at a White House ceremony. So did Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, the new federal security administrator.

Strong opposition to Wilson's appointment has developed in the Senate on the ground that he holds stock in General Motors, biggest Defense Department private contractor.

The question has been raised whether he would run afoul a law which bars federal officials from dealing with firms in which they have even an indirect financial interest.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he knew of no change in Eisenhower's intention to nominate Wilson.

The Senate Armed Services Committee would have to pass on Wilson's nomination before the Senate (Continued on Page Two)

325 Stubborn Pennsy Cons Still Hold Out

BELLEFONTE, Pa. (AP)—A stubborn band of 325 convicts, still holding six prison guards as hostages, stood fast in their barricaded cell block with the next move apparently up to state officials and a force of state troopers encircling the prisoners.

As the fourth day of the outbreak dawned, the troopers and prison guards, armed with submachine-guns, tear gas, small arms and riot sticks were ready to move if state officials decided an all-out assault is the only solution.

State Atty. Gen. Robert E. Woodside, acting on direct orders from Gov. John S. Fine, has been in charge of the efforts to dislodge the convicts in Cell Block A, center of the original outbreak Monday night. He has refused to confirm or deny reports that a showdown may develop today by sending the troops into the cell block.

The convicts are in the unique position of controlling the store-room containing canned foods, thus assuring them and their hostages at least seven days' supply of food.

This situation, plus a "get-tough" order from Fine Wednesday, gave support to reports that the assault was being considered by state officials as the last available avenue open for ending the riot.

Bolton To Speak

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Oliver P. Bolton (R-Ohio) will speak for the Ohio Republican delegation in the House Jan. 29 in observance of the 110th birthday of the late President William McKinley.

Jim Creedon, Veteran Detective, Joins Investigation Of Ruff Case

Ruff, and one of his two sisters, Miss Bonnie Ruff, have been spending nights in the home of the married couple. They said they were present the night of the murder.

It was expected the accusation against Mrs. Ruff will be presented to the January grand jury, which begins meeting next Monday.

UP TO Thursday, at least, baffling phases of the case included the following:

1. The mother of the victim has yet to clear up for investigators just when she became certain her son was dead. She said she and her daughter, Bonnie, were awakened by shots which came from the bedroom used by her son and his wife.

The victim's mother said she hurried through a double cupboard to her left and into a utility room. It has not been learned why she did not try to reach her son's bed by the shortest route—out of her own bedroom, into the hall and through the opposite door leading to a point near the foot of her son's bed.

Arriving in the utility room, she said, she was almost immediately attacked by her daughter-in-law, who threatened her with a revolver. They struggled inside a narrow hallway, and the daughter-in-law, broke away and ran downstairs—after firing two wild shots, according to Ruff's mother.

"Then, she said, 'I ran back to my room the same way I had come to get something to protect myself.'"

"Didn't you look into or go into your son's room first?", she was asked.

"No," she replied, "I knew it was too late."

"Didn't you at least call to your son?", was the next question.

"No," the elderly woman replied, "I knew it wouldn't do any good."

GENERAL impression among investigators, from the story told by the victim's mother, is that once she returned to her bedroom she stayed there until a school bus came for Danny, 7-year-old son of the victim. She and Bonnie, they said, barricaded themselves in the room through fear of Mrs. Ruff and "although we heard the car start away we weren't sure she was gone."

The school bus driver was urged from one of the bedroom windows to enter the home, according to a story told the morning of the slaying, and then the women came out of their barricaded room.

Presumably it wasn't until then that the victim's mother knew for certain her son was dead.

As far as could be learned, the elderly woman did not cry out to her son while she said she was struggling with her daughter-in-law.

Actually, according to Pickaway County Coroner Ray Carroll, Ruff probably remained alive but unconscious for from two to four hours after he was shot. Best estimates as to the time of the shooting apparently center around 3 a. m.

2. The victim's mother has frequently told of two shots fired by her daughter-in-law while they struggled just inside a narrow hallway which has white plaster walls and ceiling. A long search by a number of investigators thus far has failed to find any trace of the slugs from such shots, or a any trace of a possible ricochet.

A THIN GREEN rug on the floor of the hallway was partially removed without showing any trace of the shooting.

The victim's mother told how, with her left hand, she tried to wrest the gun away from the younger woman while, with her right hand, she "tried to grab her face." The older woman's left hand was lacerated between thumb and forefinger when authorities arrived at the scene. At one time she was understood to say her daughter-in-law needed "both hands to fire the gun."

Sheriff Radcliff said an examination of the accused farm-wife immediately after her arrest in Columbus showed no bruises, cuts or the like—and, presumably, no scratches.

3. A shotgun found lying, jammed, on the back porch of the farm house shortly after authorities arrived has yet to be explained. The porch is low and, when found, the gun was lying with its stock near the edge of the porch, the barrel pointed almost on a straight line toward the house.

It was one of two shotguns owned by Ruff, the other one being found unloaded upstairs near the head of his bed. A hired man at the farm said the gun found on the back porch was usually kept inside on the first floor.

Sheriff Radcliff said at the time that tests for fingerprints would be made on the gun if it became necessary.

4. THE VICTIM'S mother and her daughter, from their bedroom window where they said they barricaded themselves could have had a wide view westward toward Route 23 in daylight, from this window, they could see almost the full length of the farm lane between the house and highway.

They said they heard Mrs. Ruff

drive away in the family car but feared she had not left the premises, it being dark at the time. Both the mother of the victim and her daughter described Mrs. Ruff as a "very poor" driver.

5. The victim's mother and her daughter told officers on their arrival that there had been no dispute of any kind between Ruff and his wife the evening prior to the slaying. They said the married couple "had just the usual spats and nothing more."

6. A towel reportedly found, close to or under the body of the victim by the undertaker has yet to be explained. It was blood-stained and a close study failed to locate it in photographs taken at the scene shortly after authorities arrived.

7. Reports attributed to members of the Columbus police department were that a revolver found among Mrs. Ruff's belongings at the time of her arrest showed four exploded cartridges, three unused shells and two empty chambers in the nine-shot cylinder.

8. Shortly after he arrived on the scene, Sheriff Radcliff found what he said were blood stains at several places on the floor of the married couple's bedroom and blood spots on the second floor. The victim's mother said many of the apparent blood spots probably came from her bleeding hand, cut in a struggle with her daughter-in-law. Others, she said, could not have been caused in that manner.

9. WHEN AND why the victim's mother and her daughter began spending nights at the home of the married couple is still confused. On the morning of the slaying, it was said the custom had started last Summer, lack of a furnace in the old homestead a short distance south being mentioned as one of the chief reasons.

More recently, however, the victim's mother said the change first began a few months ago, particularly because it was too lonesome with only her and her daughter in the older building.

10. A farm worker hired by the Ruffs said the slain man had spent a large part of the day before his death at a sale in London.

Ruff's mother however, said he remained at the farm all that day, working with the hired man.

11. Both the victim's mother and her daughter told of hearing Mrs. Ruff fire two shots downstairs shortly before she left in the car. No particular reason why she should do this has ever been offered with the exception of a comment by the victim's mother, who said:

"The only reason I can think of is that the two children didn't want to go with her and that she fired

The new secretary is faced with a number of problems which will require attention within the next several weeks and months. They include:

1. Determination of a policy on whether the U. S. should continue participation in an international wheat agreement. This agreement, which will expire in July unless extended, is designed to help stabilize wheat prices and supplies in world markets. Under it, the U. S. is selling wheat abroad at about 65 cents a bushel below the domestic price.

2. Review of the department's budget and a decision on whether to recommend cuts, particularly in a controversial 250 million dollar subsidy program for soil conservation.

3. Review of spring crop production goals, set by his predecessor, Charles F. Brannan.

Wilson Dispute May Turn Ike To Old Friend

acted, and Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass) said it will do nothing until a name is submitted officially.

ONE HIGHLY placed GOP senator, who asked that his name not be used, said efforts were being made to persuade Wilson to sell his G. M. stock.

"Mr. Wilson is a stubborn man," this senator added. "He takes the position that they should have known what they were doing when they offered him the job, that asking him to sell his stock is a reflection on his integrity."

Wilson could not be confirmed now, the senator said, "even if they come up with some maneuver" like changing the law to fit his case or the issuance of a presidential order which would bar him from passing upon G. M. contracts. He added that the White House had been appraised of this.

The other eight Cabinet members were confirmed in a group Wednesday, after several hours of discussion. Then, in an 11-minute ceremony at the White House with the Eisenhowers and their own relatives looking on, they took the oath in this order:

John Foster Dulles, secretary of state; George M. Humphrey, secretary of the Treasury; Herbert Brownell Jr., attorney general; Arthur E. Summerfield, postmaster general; Douglas McKay, secretary of the interior; Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture; Sinclair Weeks, secretary of commerce, and Martin P. Durkin, secretary of labor.

No dissenting votes were heard in the Senate on confirmation of the eight Cabinet members, although two senators had asked to be on record in opposition.

SEN. YOUNG (R-ND) said he was dubious about Secretary of Agriculture Benson's attitude on continuing government farm price supports at present levels beyond 1954.

Sen Magnuson (D-Wash) said he differed with Secretary of the Interior McKay on public power projects.

There was a lot of evident maneuvering in the Wilson case.

Saltonstall told reporters Wilson had telephoned him and offered to come before the committee again "to clarify" his earlier testimony. Saltonstall said he told Wilson the committee could not act now until it received an official nomination.

W. B. PERSONS, Eisenhower's assistant for congressional liaison, conferred at length with Saltonstall. The latter would give no details, saying only that "we must keep abreast of the facts."

Sen. Byrd (D-Va), one of the first to raise questions on the Wilson nomination, also got a telephone call from Wilson. What they talked about was not disclosed.

There was a lot of evident maneuvering in the Wilson case.

Saltonstall told reporters Wilson had telephoned him and offered to come before the committee again "to clarify" his earlier testimony. Saltonstall said he told Wilson the committee could not act now until it received an official nomination.

Truman Back Home, Looking For Job To Avoid Devilment

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Harry S. Truman, welcomed home in roaring receptions that moved him to the verge of tears, began looking for work today lest idleness lead him into "devilment."

After nearly eight turbulent years and unprecedented responsibilities at a time of world crisis, he suddenly found himself with nothing to do but unpack all his gear and find a job.

Harry Truman, ex-President of the United States, is a restless man who has been working 17 hours a day in the White House in Washington, and he's already worrying how long he can "take it easy."

"It's not hard work that gets a man into trouble," he told reporters. "It's the lack of it. When a fellow has nothing to do he gets into devilment."

Offers of high-paying jobs continued to pour in from all parts of the country but he withheld any acceptance until he can find something to his liking and suitable to his talents.

He already has rented a private office in the Federal Reserve Bank Building in nearby Kansas City and put Miss Rose Conway, his personal stenographer, to work on his mail.

The ex-President and Mrs. Truman, happy to be home again, stepped from the presidential private car Wednesday night to find a crowd estimated at 10,000 gathered around the little depot to give them an emotional greeting.

Truman choked up as he gazed at the assembled thousands, some of whom had been waiting for hours.

"I appreciate this reception," he told them. "It's magnificent. There's not any more I can say except that we are back home for good."

Another throng of 1,500 waited in the street when the Trumans drove up to their big, white frame home on North Delaware, and there were more cheers.

Truman was deeply touched at the depot when Mayor Robert Weatherford Jr. told him, "You'll always be Mr. President to us."

"I can't tell you how much I appreciate this reception," he said, his voice breaking. "I never expected anything like this. Therefore, it is closer to my heart."

But his inevitable humor came to his rescue.

"I am in the army of the unemployed," he said. And then, talking again like the Democratic campaigner of "give 'em hell" fame who credits the employment situation to party policies, he couldn't resist adding, "but it is a very small army."

He said Mrs. Truman had appointed him the "official unpacker" of the "goods and chattels" and he had to get that job done. After that, he said with a grin, he'll be "out of a job" and "open to dinner invitations" to keep from "going hungry."

Truman's big ambition is to lecture to high school and college students on the United Nations and the necessity for preserving the peace in an atomic age, and to convince them that the future will be one of wonderful advancement once atomic energy can be devoted entirely to peace.

He wants to travel abroad, but those plans haven't jelled. He also wants to see constructed on the family farm at nearby Grandview a 1½ million dollar cultural center to house his presidential papers and provide a place for student research in music, the arts, history and government. Fund raising for this project has already been started by a group of his close friends.

Margaret, the Truman daughter, didn't come to Missouri with her parents. She had to go to New York to keep a singing engagement.

That Contrary Old Man Blamed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Who ordered Maj. John Eisenhower home from Korea to see his father inaugurated as president?

Dwight D. Eisenhower learned the answer just before Tuesday's inauguration by asking President Truman:

"Sir, may I ask you a question: Who ordered my boy home from Korea? He's been giving me hell about it."

"I did," Truman said. "Just tell him that contrary old man in the White House did it."

The major was given 15 days home leave.

Railroad Cars Fall On Highway

STUEBENVILLE (AP)—Fourteen railroad cars loaded with iron ore jumped the tracks on a bridge at nearby Mingo Junction today, and two toppled 60 feet onto a busy highway and another railroad right-of-way.

Only one person was injured, Miss Sally Hotchkiss, 26, of Martins Ferry, who miraculously escaped death when a car loaded with 75 tons of ore crashed down on an automobile she was driving along State 7. Miss Hotchkiss, who was on her way to work as a nurse at Ohio Valley Hospital here, arrived at the hospital as a patient.

Mrs. Hobby Says 'Salvage Good'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, new federal security administrator, says the Eisenhower administration should salvage whatever is good out of the Truman administration's programs.

Mrs. Hobby, Houston publisher and wartime director of the WAC, told the Women's Division of the Republican National Committee Wednesday that "Some of what was done in the past was sound in policy and shoddy in application, good in part and wrong in full perspective, needed at the time but now obsolescent."

City Enters Ohio Traffic Safety Test

Joining with other Ohio municipalities in the traffic safety program, Circleville has been enrolled in the Ohio Traffic Safety Contest for 1953 by Mayor Ed Amey.

In entering this community in the contest, Mayor Amey pledged:

"Realizing that cooperative action by all governmental groups and individual citizens is necessary to carry on an effective program of traffic accident prevention, our city will lend every assistance possible to help make Ohio the safest state."

The Ohio Traffic Safety Council, which sponsors the Contest with the active support of the Ohio Department of Highways, pointed out: "Traffic safety is all-important at this time, as evidenced by the motor vehicle accident problem that is resulting from the increasing use of the streets and highways."

"APPROXIMATELY 1,900 persons were killed in motor vehicle accidents in Ohio during 1952. Every indication is that the number of men, women and children killed in traffic will continue to be too high unless accident prevention activities are made effective through every means that human ingenuity can devise and that organized group action can further."

The Ohio Traffic Safety Contest is for cities of 4,000 or more population. The cities are divided into seven population classifications and awards are made in each of these classifications to the communities showing the greatest traffic safety improvement for the year.

Circleville has been accorded honors for eight times in its population group in the Ohio traffic safety contest, having received honorable mention in 1950-47-46-45-44-43-41-40.

Use Of More Gas, Auto Tax On Roads Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—One solution to the higher cost of building highways may be the earmarking for that purpose of all federal gasoline and automobile taxes, Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) said today.

The government now collects about $2 billion a year from gasoline and automobile excise taxes, he said, but spends only $575 million a year on highways.

He said the House Roads Subcommittee he is to head will explore the whole problem of federal aid to states for highways, and probably will hold hearings to consider the views of state highway officials and others.

McGregor said he is concerned with road building especially in such areas as Southern Ohio, where the Atomic Energy Commission is building a plant.

Ohio officials and private groups, such as the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, are worried that state money required to match federal funds for roads in the atomic plant area may have to be diverted from other necessary highway work elsewhere in the state. The Ohio chamber has asked to meet with the Ohio congressmen on this problem.

City Naval Officer Helping Army Care For Its Dentures

The United States Navy is doing more than transporting the Army overseas nowadays. It is also taking care of the Army's teeth.

At least that is true at Fort Hayes where Navy Lieutenants William Rickey of Circleville and Peter Jesick of Youngstown are serving as post dental officers.

The Navy officers arrived on the post after completing a short indoctrination course at the Army's medical field service school in Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Both Navy reservists, they were recalled to active duty in October and assigned to the Army.

ALTHOUGH this is the first time the two officers had been given strictly landlubber duty and it is the first time Fort Hayes has been commanded—orally, that is, — by the Navy, Navy dentists have served Army units since World War II.

Lt. Rickey began his dentistry career with the Navy after graduating from Ohio State in 1945. He served until 1946, when he opened his office in Circleville.

His wife, Betty Rickey, and children, Elizabeth 8, Fred 6, and Bonnie 4, live at 119 Collins Court.

When Major William Rose, chief dental officer for Ft. Hayes, leaves in February, the Navy will assume complete command of the Army teeth in Fort Hayes and in the Ohio military district.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press
News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The announcement that President Eisenhower will hold regular news conferences, as Presidents Roosevelt and Truman did, settles the rumor that he'd hold few or none at all.

Like Truman, Eisenhower in the beginning may pull boners trying to answer too much too fast. In his early White House days Truman tried to answer everything yes or no. He had to learn to be careful.

One memorable mistake was when he told a news conference he had approved a speech by Henry Wallace, then his secretary of commerce. This caused international confusion when the speech turned out to be one criticizing Truman's foreign policy.

Later Truman explained he merely meant to say he had approved Wallace's right to make a speech, not the speech itself. Sometimes Truman got his facts mixed up, then had to issue corrections.

There was a time, right after he got into the Wallace jam, when it was thought here Truman might call off the news conferences. But as he became more cautious and sure of himself he seemed to enjoy them.

If Eisenhower should put his foot in his mouth, or if he thinks the reporters' questions are a little too rough on him, he may get an inclination to drop the conference idea.

He's shown small enthusiasm for news conferences. He held few during the presidential campaign and none since the election except for one in Korea where he wouldn't permit questions.

But no president, particularly a new one, can be expected to know all the answers to all the questions. He can say frankly he doesn't know, when he doesn't. Or, when he thinks it better not to answer, he can say "No comment."

Overdone, "No comment" could make news conferences useless. It must be assumed any president who holds conferences at all will answer what he can within limits of reason and security.

A president isn't doing newsmen a favor by holding conferences. Without them, he could become isolated from, and insulated against, public thinking in a hurry.

News conferences let him pump his ideas out to the public regularly and give him the benefit of public reaction. At the same time, through the newsmen, the public can quiz him on his decisions and intentions.

News conferences are one way to keep the President and the people from getting too far apart and out of step.

Eisenhower seems to realize, before holding even his first White House conference, that he can't be expected to know in detail the answer to all the questions flung at him.

His press secretary, James Hagerty, said yesterday Eisenhower may bring into the conferences with him members of his Cabinet, the department heads, who can help answer questions.

In Britain the Prime Minister and his Cabinet have to answer questions put to them in Parliament, face to face, by members of the House of Commons.

From time to time it has been suggested here that the President and his Cabinet follow the British custom by appearing before Congress to answer questions from the floor.

Nothing like that is in sight here. The plan Hagerty mentioned would be the closest approach to it. But Cabinet members here usually have held their own news conferences, individually although not regularly, except for the secretary of state. Dean Acheson had more news conferences than any other member of Truman's Cabinet.

Japs Report Seeing Reds Down U.S. B29

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese fishermen just released from Soviet captivity said Wednesday they saw Russian fighter planes and ground guns shoot down a U. S. B29 superfort last Oct. 7 off Northern Japan.

One fisherman said he saw two Russian fighter planes chase the B29, heard gunfire and then:

"Black smoke started to stream from the American plane and it crashed into the sea at a tremendous speed."

The fishermen gave their accounts to Japanese reporters at Nemuro on the northern island of Hokkaido. Three fishing craft with 23 crewmen were released after six months of hard labor on the Russian-held island of Yuri near Hokkaido. They had been seized for allegedly poaching in Russian waters.

The accounts they gave varied in some detail but most said they saw two Soviet fighters chase a B29 while they were fishing under Soviet orders.

The fishermen said Soviet soldiers guarding them immediately ordered the fishing boats back to Yuri, where they were put under confinement. They made no mention of sighting any parachutes from the B29.

The U. S. government hotly protested the incident to Russia, demanding compensation for the "wanton and unjustifiable attack" and warned of possible grave consequences from the "reckless practice."

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

Do too many pounds give you the overweight blues? Here's a letter from a high school girl who needs to begin the "battle of the bulge":

"I am a sophomore in high school and would like to have dates like my friends. I have plenty of girl friends and boys seem to like me, but they never ask me for a date. I guess it is because I'm fat. I would like to go on a diet. Will you advise me?"

Ans.—Normal weight does make a girl look prettier and more dateable. But skip the diet idea. You don't have to diet drastically to lose extra pounds. Too many high schoolers cut their calories and omit vital, protective foods needed for pep, fun and health.

The best, easiest way is to omit fattening foods, keeping plenty of essential body-building, energy-making fuel in your daily menus. Cutting down on starchy food, fats and sweets will do the trick without harm and it's easier than you think.

Eat fruit between meals when you want a snack and substitute fruits for rich, sweet desserts. At the soda fountain, have a fresh fruit drink; no gooey sundaes.

Omit bread as much as possible. Don't eat both bread and potato at the same meal. Omit gravy, mayonnaise, whipped cream.

Eat lean meat, fish, vegetables, salads.

Exercise every day. Walk instead of riding whenever possible. Enjoy outdoor sports like skating, skiing, hiking, swimming, tennis.

Bowling and skating indoors are fun and helpful, too. You'll enjoy these sports, lose weight and meet more boys and girls. Perhaps you have makings of a basketball or hockey ace; give it a try at school.

Your clothes can make you look slimmer. Wear one-piece dresses or matched two-pieces—smooth fabrics, blouses instead of sweaters, flared skirts.

German Claims Knowledge Of Hitler's Status

BERCHTESGADEN (AP)—Bavaria's Justice Ministry disclosed Wednesday that at least one German claims to know "the present whereabouts of Adolf Hitler and can disclose it at any time after proclamation of a general amnesty for his followers."

The ministry said it had a letter claiming just that. The writer, however, did not give his name.

Justice officials here said that numerous former Nazi party members also had written the Berchtesgaden district court protesting against a possible ruling that Hitler, "our highly honored fuhrer," is legally dead.

The Nazi letter - writing campaign was prompted by an application to the court by the government trustee of Hitler's sole remaining property in Austria, Jan Vermeer's painting "Artist in his Atelier." Der Fuehrer is supposed to have paid its Austrian owner $660,000 for it in 1940.

The trustee asked the Berchtesgaden court to issue him a certificate that Hitler is dead so that clear title to confiscated painting can be taken by the Austrian government.

Top Executive Salaries Show Boom Effects

Average Increase Since Korea Said To Be Five Per Cent

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Top executives in most American corporations have been doing all right financially during the current business boom—although their pay gains haven't been as great percentage-wise as have those of some factory workers.

You may have guessed this. But today there's a financial report on the salaries, bonus payments and contributions to retirement funds of some 15,000 top men in 1,850 companies.

Their compensation went up by 4 to 10 per cent since the start of the Korean War, the American Management Association reports. The average among the 46 industries studied was five per cent.

This is compensation before taxes. Many an executive will tell you that often taxation, his take-home pay doesn't look that hot. And he'll add that the cost of living index went up even more—although none of the top boys pretends he actually is under-nourished.

There is wide variation among companies and among industries. AMA reports, "because of the direct relation between compensation of executives and the sales and profit performance of their companies."

Pay of top executives "depends on their ability to produce increased sales and profits," AMA notes. And bonuses play a large part, varying as much as 30 per cent among companies as their profits rise or fall.

On average, bonus payments make up 2 per cent of the total compensation of top executives.

Bonus amounts were raised in 12 of the durable goods manufacturing industries and reduced in four. In non-durable goods industries there were seven increases to nine reductions. All retail classifications were lower.

Contributions to retirement funds however, were the most consistent gainers. For all industries they rose 15 per cent, and accounted for 10 to 15 per cent of the total compensation.

County School Buys TV Set For Education

Many Pickaway County schools Tuesday had television sets installed at the generosity of appliance dealers so their youngsters and teachers might witness the inaugural.

And Pickaway Township school even had four sets available so its youngsters would not miss a move.

For lasting education and entertainment, Williamsport school holds the record here.

Williamsport youngsters Tuesday saw the big ceremony on their own set, a permanent installation bought with an eye to the future.

JUD LANMAN, superintendent of the school, said the set was purchased last year as the result of a big scrap drive and has been installed in the auditorium.

"We bought the set with the idea of educational features, which are increasing," Lanman said. "So far, however, the features have been few and the set has been used mostly for special occasions and for entertainment."

"But one of these days, soon I hope, some station will begin specializing in educational and informative programs which will fit our school perfectly."

Lanman said the set will be available to special classes or to the school as a whole when educational programs on science, languages, history, music appreciation, manual talents or other aids are aired.

Court Upholds PUCO Order For Better Utility Service

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court held Wednesday the state can require a public utility to provide adequate service but lacks authority to condition new rates and dividend payments to stockholders on improved services.

The court handed down the decision in an appeal by the Elyria Telephone Co. from orders by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) in a rate case.

The commission approved higher rates for the company's telephone subscribers but said they could not be collected until certain improvements were completed.

The commission also ordered the company to withhold dividend payments to stockholders until the improvements were made. The court termed that order an error.

The court held the commission's order interfered with the firm's corporate management and exceeded PUCO's powers.

THE COMMISSION granted a company request for increased rates in Elyria, North Ridgeville and LaGrange in 1950 but conditioned the boost on completion of improvements in service and facilities.

The commission later conducted a hearing in Elyria to receive complaints from telephone users. Following the hearing, the commission modified the previous rate schedule but retained the conditions for their collection.

The commission also ordered the company to include the "Gulf Road area" in determining a rate base. The court reversed that part of the order and directed the commission to correct it.

The court said the order "while not void, because of indefiniteness, is subject to correction and definition by the commission."

Commission attaches said the court decision means that hearings to receive complaints of telephone users about service no longer are necessary in considering applications for increased rates.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Columnist Westbrook Pegler responded cheerfully Tuesday when a man greeted him as he sat in the press section at the presidential inaugural ceremonies.

Then his greeter, special process server Hugh Duffy, handed the newspaperman a court summons and a copy of a complaint in a $5,100,000 assault-libel-conspiracy suit, filed by columnist Drew Pearson.

British May Face Shortage Of Fish

LONDON (AP)—Food-short Britain Wednesday faced a new threat to one of its favorite items of diet—fish. The Russians say they are going to ban British fishermen from a nine-mile belt of Soviet coastal waters in the Barents Sea area. These waters are a prime haunt of plaice and haddock, both popular fish on Britain's table. The ban is expected to hit the British fish supply line hard.

THE BALLOON INVASION

DR. LINCOLN LAPAZ, director of the University of New Mexico's Institute of Meteorites, tells in an article in Collier's Magazine and, for the first time, the complete story of Japan's balloon invasion of the United States during the closing days of World War II.

Dr. LaPaz served as technical director of the Second Air Force operations analysis section, and headed the investigation of reports of balloons landing in many parts of the nation, mostly in western areas.

Approximately 700 balloons made the long trip from Japan, while 300 were actually accounted for and investigated. These reports were kept top secret to prevent the Japanese from learning how successful their campaign was. Not only did they bring terror to the military, but many fires were started and some persons killed.

Dr. LaPaz says the devilish ingenuity of the Japs was clearly demonstrated by the construction of the balloons, and if the war had continued these air-borne invaders would have caused great damage.

While the balloons were incendiary in purpose, the Japs were prepared to send over germ-laden balloons, with emphasis on anthrax. This Japanese know-how is now in the hands of the Russians, who could launch a more effective campaign because of favorable air currents.

Dr. LaPaz says the balloon is no longer a toy, but a fearsome weapon of destruction which this nation may be forced to face in an all-out war.

HE DIDN'T SLEEP THERE

IN PRESENTING a bottle of 152-year-old cognac to President Eisenhower, Max Blouet, manager of the George V Hotel in Paris, discreetly informed the American press that the General had inhabited the hotel from 1944-46.

Although the record shows that General Eisenhower did not stay there a single night, the prestige that an "Eisenhower slept here" sign would bring to any hotel can be easily imagined.

Thus, if Monsieur Blouet wishes to get into the act, why not go "whole hog or none," for as any gambler knows, a large bluff carries much more weight than a mincing one. Therefore, it might be suggested that a dozen or so suites be set aside for the accommodation of the many plush American tourists who will doubtless clamor for the "Eisenhower suite."

These Days

It would appear that nearly every member of Congress and his administrative assistant wants to be involved, in a major way, in the investigation of Communists. It used to be that nobody wanted to serve on such committees and that reputations were destroyed by membership on them.

The political success of Senator Joe McCarthy and the growth in reputation of Senator Pat McCarran and Senator Homer Ferguson have stimulated a desire of other Senators and Representatives to get themselves into activities which are not only useful but are paying off politically. I heard that about 180 Representatives want to be on the House Committee on Un-American Activities!

Actually, investigation of the subversives is a difficult and technical task. Few are good at it. The first efforts under Representative Martin Dies were fumbling. Robert Stripling and Dr. J. B. Matthews had to learn how to question Communists and how to conduct such a committee. Since the days of Martin Dies, the techniques of such investigations have advanced considerably, so that in the Internal Security Committee, headed by Senator Pat McCarran, with J. G. Sourwine and Robert Morris as counsel, no mistakes were made. This committee came close to a grand jury proceedings.

The primary difficulty that faces most Congressional committees is that their members and counsel know nothing about Marxism, Communism or the nature of the world-wide conspiracy. Most of them do not know what the witnesses are talking about and they do not know what questions to ask. I have interviewed a number of witnesses before some of these committees and have found that they answered incorrectly and even perjured themselves because the questions were asked incorrectly and the witness was given no opportunity to rephrase the questions or answers. The Tydings Committee, whose counsel was Edward Morgan, will forever stand as a classical example of bad questioning.

Joe McCarthy has done an exceptionally competent job in unearthing the Communists in the State Department, the Institute of Pacific Relations and the United Nations. It must be remembered that Senator McCarthy was on no committee that could investigate these charges. It was only when the McCarran Committee undertook to investigate these matters that McCarthy's charges began to stand up. He had said that his entire case would stand or collapse on Lattimore.

Today, Owen Lattimore stands indicted by a federal grand jury in Washington on a perjury charge growing out of his testimony before the Internal Security Committee.

At present, it would seem that there are likely to be too many committees dealing with the same material. There is the House Committee on Un-American Activities, which continues in this field under the chairmanship of Harold Velde, an experienced investigator. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee under Senator Alexander Wiley wants to investigate the relations of Marxism to our foreign policy.

Inflammation of Pancreas May Be Difficult to Diagnose

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
EXPERIENCED physicians often can recognize some diseases almost at a glance. Others are very hard to diagnose, as they mimic other conditions. Special tests may have to be made in a number of cases before the doctor can put his finger on the real trouble, and these may take quite some time to perform. Pancreatitis, or inflammation of the pancreas, a gland beneath the first part of the small bowel, is one of these diseases that are hard to recognize, and this makes it seem rarer than it really is. It may mimic many other abdominal diseases, such as ruptured ulcer or ruptured bowel. Most people these days know about insulin, and how this hormone, given off by the pancreas, is essential for the proper use of starches and carbohydrates in our food. In addition to this, the pancreas gives off certain important digestive juices.

Pain Severe

Usually an attack of pancreatitis begins a few hours after a heavy meal, or after drinking too much alcohol. The person complains of a persistent, agonizing pain just below the ribs, and a very severe backache. An important feature of this pain is that narcotics made from opium do not relieve it as they do most other types of pain. This pain is so severe that the person appears to be in shock.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. D.: I have heard that people having migraine have a warning sign. Is this true?
Answer: In the majority of migraine cases there is a warning of an oncoming attack. However, this is not always the rule. The sign may be a depression, irritability, restlessness, loss of appetite, seeing spots before the eyes, sudden blindness, numbness, and weakness of one side of the body.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

BILL came in for his supper, explaining, "Gee, I didn't know it was so late."

"Your supper's on a plate in the oven, Bill," said Susan quickly.

"It's your business to know what time it is," said Will Brent when the boy came back with his plate.

"If I hadn't learned that a long time ago..."

Bill did not let him finish. "Well, if you'd give me a wrist watch, like I asked..."

"I didn't own a watch until I was twenty-one."

"And I suppose you got it then because you hadn't smoked," said Nell in a level voice.

Susan got up from the table a little hastily. "Nell, will you bring out the plates? I'll fix the dessert—it's a jelly mold."

Bill was wolfing his food. Suddenly he stopped. "I forgot—I've a letter for you, Aunt Debbie. Mr. Higgins saw you drive past without stopping for the mail and gave it to me."

He produced it from his pocket, slightly crumpled. Deborah took it, glanced at it, said delightedly, "At last!"

Will, "It's from Rom Barcek. You may remember I spoke of him that first evening I was here. Now I'll know when he is coming!"

She looked down again at the letter but not so quickly that she did not see Will's face whiteen about the lips—just as his mother's used to.

"Why—he wrote this from New York City; he'll be here day after tomorrow!"

Susan and Nell came in with the dessert. "Who'll be here?" asked Nell.

Deborah folded the letter, smiling. "A very good friend of mine, Rom Barcek. He's very interesting—he writes books."

Nell's interest, now, was genuine. "I've never met a real author."

"You knew Mrs. Hurrell," reminded Bill.

Red rushed up Nell's cheeks. "She was old," she retorted.

"His name's funny," said Bill. "Rom. I never heard that one before."

"He's Polish. It's not an unusual name with them. Rather nice sounding, I think."

"And Barcek," Bill turned that on his tongue, then put a big spoonful of jelly in his mouth.

Susan was saying nothing. Deborah noticed how she kept her eyes on her plate. Was it awareness of her father's disapproval—or was she thinking what her father was thinking? "Oh, child, don't be that much inhibited!"

She got up from the table. The tension was becoming intolerable. "May I eat and run, Susan? And Will, I wish you'd walk over to the other house—there's an up-right on the back porch which perhaps should be bolstered some before the painter gets to it. If you'd look at it..."

She was inviting the storm, she knew. But—"Let Willie get it out of his system."

He went with her, examined the support she indicated. "That should be good for several years," he pronounced.

"If you think so," agreed Deborah and sat down on the step.

Will Brent drew out a handkerchief, wiped his forehead. "Deborah, I'll take this opportunity to say what's on my mind..."

"Please do, Willie."

He drew himself up straight. "I don't want you to be filling the girls' heads with extravagant ideas. I don't know whether you can afford it or not, but—I cannot afford it." He stopped.

"Rom?" prompted Deborah.

"Yes. It isn't any of my affair how many men you keep trailing after you—as long as you are a long way from Sweethome. But to bring your practices here, flaunt them in the faces of the respectable people here, is too flagrant."

Deborah got to her feet, faced him. He was taller than she. "Sit down," she said, and pushed him so forcibly that he had no choice but to drop down into the chair that was behind him. "Now listen to me!" She went on, her voice low, with more scorn in it than anger. "What do you know of my practices? Nothing! You've held all these years to what your mother impressed upon you—that I was bad. That I'd always be bad."

Can he hear her saying it? And can it occur to you that she might have been wrong? But we'll skip all that. It's only important if you are that stupid about everything else! As to Rom Barcek—he's only twenty-eight years old, only a little older than my boy would be, if he had lived. He has no one—his father, mother, sister were murdered by the Nazis—he was here studying at Columbia. He went back after the war and they were all gone..."

Anything I do to help a boy so alone, any kindness I show him, is flagrant to these people here in Sweethome—well, they're not worth thinking twice about."

She dropped down again on the step, exhausted, shaken.

Will Brent got up from the chair. He did not speak for a moment, then he said stiffly, yet not with his usual decisiveness, "If there was someone else living here with you..."

Deborah laughed. "A chaperone? Perhaps Nell—you couldn't spare Susan!"

He ignored the implication in that. He went down the steps. "I am only trying to tell you that there will be talk. It's on your head, but I intend to keep my girls out of it."

"Of course," said Deborah.

He stalked off across the yards without another word.

"Poor Willie," murmured Deborah, watching him go.

She sat on, then, where she was. "If Willie knew I picked Rom up in a restaurant! A small eating place in a basement under some stores, and usually crowded because the food was exceptionally good. 'Will you mind sharing a table?' the waitress had asked her, with Rom right behind her, a shabby-looking, too-thin young man. He had ordered only a bowl of soup—ten cents. Her plate was heaped with hearty food. She had seen his eyes drawn to it more than once. He was hungry—he knew the look. They had talked. "Though I did most of it, I remember."

Keeping Abreast Of New Dagmar Probably Would Kill Most Girls

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There isn't as much Dagmar as there used to be.

She just decided she was "too much of a good thing." So now she's in a new economy-size package.

And if the Republican administration is looking for advice on how to trim down figures, Dagmar stands ready to help. Deciding her own blonde abundance was outgrowing the nation's television screens, she has trimmed her weight a full 20 pounds.

The new Dagmar, a canny lass who skyrocketed her income from $25 for her first video show to $7,500 a week for personal appearance tours, is positively svelte now instead of buxom.

"Honey"—she calls everybody that—"Too much weight stymies my mind," she said. "The fat was getting around my brain. Now I can think faster. But I'm lucky. When I diet the weight comes off all over me. I feel so little."

She said, however, whittling down her shape hadn't hurt her celebrated chest expansion—42½ inches normal, 45 expanded. Nor does she feel that her new svelte shape should stir any alarm in two potential blonde rivals—Zsa Zsa Gabor and Marilyn Monroe.

"I never did feud with anybody," she said mildly. "The country is so big there is room for all three of us—even when I breathe deeply."

"But Marilyn sure was smart to get her picture on that calendar. People have to look at a calendar to see what day it is. That way they get to see more of her."

Dagmar portrays a dumb blonde, but in real life she is about as dumb as an albino fox—as informal as a backyard clothesline hung with laundry.

"Honey, I'll tell you anything except my age and my weight—they both fluctuate too much," she said, as we sat sipping coffee in her penthouse apartment on Central Park South with her small slender husband, Danny Dayton, the comedian.

"I don't even know her weight," said Danny.

"If you ever tried to peek at those scales, I'd knock you right out of the bathroom," replied Dagmar cheerfully—and she could.

"Every woman has a right to one secret from her husband. And that's mine."

Everything about Dagmar is big—"except Danny." She has a 40-by-24-foot living room. On one wall is a large oil portrait of her, painted by a fan—a barber by trade. To it Danny pinned a state fair blue ribbon that says "champion bull."

Dagmar doesn't believe any woman who wants to lose weight should follow her own spartan diet.

"Honey, I just made it up myself," she said. "For a combination breakfast and lunch I have coffee and two hardboiled eggs. No salt on the eggs—I just take the shells off."

"Then late in the evening I have either steak, roast beef or liver with some stewed tomatoes and coffee. It's a stupid menu... probably kill most girls. But I'm strong enough to take it."

For relaxation she likes water sports "or anything where you don't have to be exact. That's why I like reading and don't like golf. It's too exact. Imagine following a little round ball all that distance just to put it in a little round hole in the ground."

Despite her profitable personal appearance tours Dagmar would like to have another television program to show off her new streamlined figure. But a new TV format—like a good man—is hard to find.

"If it's cultural, I'll go for it," she said, adding modestly: "I have nothing but a brain really."

Tips On Lice Control Given By County Agent

It is not uncommon these days to see cattle rubbing, scratching and digging.

In many herds, patches of hair are rubbed off some of the animals. Chances are these cattle have lice.

Lice are one of the most common pests of cattle and account for the loss of many pounds of beef and milk. Cattle lice can be controlled. If your cattle are lousy, do something about it.

County Agent Larry Best points out spraying cattle during the winter months is a bit hazardous. It's an easy way to give cattle colds and pneumonia. Better dust and play safe.

USE 10 PER CENT DDT dust on beef cattle, 10 per cent methoxychlor, one per cent lindane or one per cent rotenone on dairy or beef cattle.

Apply about six ounces of dust to each mature animal with any available duster; brush or rub the dust into the hair.

A second treatment in 14 to 18 days is usually necessary, since dusting is not as effective as spraying.

Dome dusts come ready to use, others will have to be diluted, Best said.

Some companies formulate two or more insecticides which work very well.

In all cases check the directions on the label and be sure of the strength of the material you purchase.

These materials are poisonous; handle with care, treat them with respect. Do not contaminate feed, containers or water with the insecticides.

Use caution, but get after the lice.

MUCH THE WORSE for wear, Paul Gonzales, 33, is shown in Bridgeview hospital, Chicago, after being mauled enthusiastically by passengers on a Chicago bus. Gonzales reportedly boarded the bus as a would-be bandit, told driver Robert Koehler not to let anyone off. After a 17-minute ride Koehler slammed on the brakes, with Gonzales crashing into the windshield. Then passengers who had missed stops got busy. (International)

Miner, Moose Die In Battle

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—The body of a 70-year-old miner, a dead cow moose and an empty, broken rifle were found on a lonely trail 15 miles north of here yesterday, mute evidence of a bitter woodland battle.

U. S. marshal's deputies theorized that Lawrence Magnusia was attacked by the moose after shooting it. He emptied his rifle in an attempt to down the moose, then broke the weapon hitting the animal. Magnusia then died himself, the victim of wounds suffered in the struggle or by a heart attack from exertion.

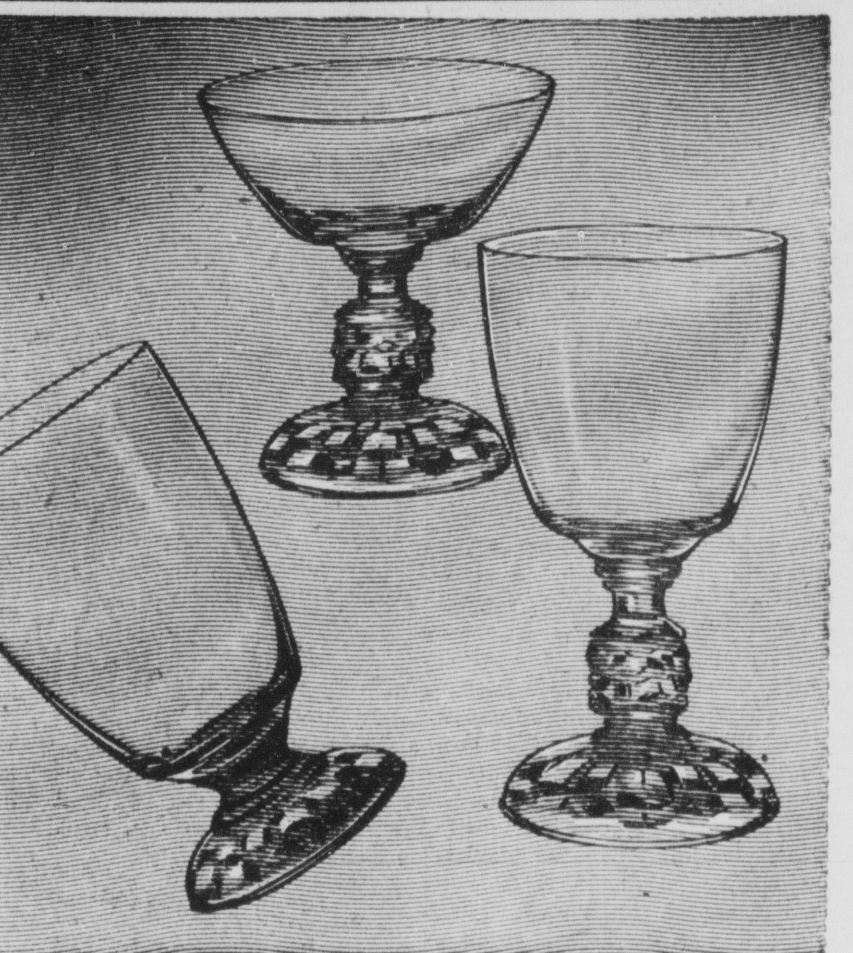

He Wouldn't Set A Good Example

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The appointment of Joaquin Tejeda as honorary inspector of traffic police has been canceled. Police Chief Antonio Gomez Velasco said Tejeda had parked too often in forbidden zones and ignored too many stop signs.

Critical Newspaper Shuts Up Shop

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—El Dia, an independent Liberal newspaper, highly critical of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra's government, has shut up shop after a court ordered its equipment attached to cover back social security payments.

Lt. Col. Maria Jaramillo, editor of the 40-year-old publication, said yesterday he had locked up the plant and the equipment would be taken only by force. He declared he had offered other properties to satisfy the debt but they were rejected on the grounds that the order specified seizure of the equipment.

Tests Of Skull In Lab May Solve Mystery

Wealthy Danish Girl
Said Buried Alive,
Then Slain In Coffin

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—A moldering skull still covered with blonde hair has been sent to a laboratory for tests to prove that Giertrud Birgitte Bodenhoff—one of 18th-century Europe's richest women—really was buried alive, then killed by grave robbers 155 years ago.

The skull and a convulsively twisted skeleton were found Monday after 10 days of digging, scraping and brushing in a caved-in vault in Copenhagen's Assistens Cemetery. Medical experts said they almost certainly were the remains of the rich beauty.

Giertrud's death is the subject of an old horror story that has sent shivers up and down generations of Danish spines. The ancient tale claims that she was buried in a state of suspended animation—by mistake after an overdose of narcotics—and later slain by grave robbers who sought to steal her jewelry.

The almost intact skull, uncovered by Police Constable Theodor A. Binnebal, an amateur archeologist, had a slightly underhanging jaw. Contemporary paintings indicate that Giertrud's jaw was a bit that way.

Surgeons and dentists who slithered down into the vault agreed the skull belonged to a woman about 19 years old at the time of her death. Giertrud was 19 when she was buried.

The position of the skull and the skeleton indicated that she really had been murdered in her coffin. The skeleton was partly turned over and the thigh bones and spine bent convulsively back as if the young woman had been writhing in agony at the time of death.

The skull was found face downward, although undoubtedly the woman had been buried on her back. There also was a distinct dent in the brow as if it were hit by some sharp instrument.

The old tale claims that Giertrud was awakened by pain when one of the grave robbers yanked violently at an earring she was wearing. She sat up in her coffin begging for help, but the ghoulis raped her and clubbed her with a spade.

Surgeons hope that X-ray tests, to be started today, will furnish final proof of Giertrud's after-burial murder.

Fortune Hidden In Wooden Leg?

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The public trustee's office today ordered exhumation of Scotsman Donald McDonald's body to determine if a small fortune is cached in his wooden leg.

Relatives in Scotland believe the 56-year-old seaman hid his life's savings there and they requested that the body be exhumed. But undertaker Bruce Maurer, who supervised the burial in April, 1951, said he didn't know whether the leg was buried with McDonald.

Estate Listed

CLEVELAND (AP)—Attorney Harry F. Payer, who died last October at 77, left an estate valued at $716,620, court records show. The bulk of the estate goes to his widow, Florence, 72. Payer's real estate holdings included Middle Bass Island in Lake Erie.

The committee has an exceptionally well-informed counsel, Julius Cahn. The Internal Security Committee is a subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee. Its chairman may be Senator William Jenner. Its present counsel is Robert Morris, one of the ablest men in this field of investigation.

Finally, there is the Committee on Expenditures in Executive Departments, the principal investigating committee of the Congress, of which Senator McCarthy is chairman.

Its counsel is Roy Cohn, who in the Department of Justice proved himself to be one of the most competent investigators of Communist activity in the United States. A combination of Morris and Cohn cannot be beaten.

The greatest loss to the country, from this standpoint, is that the Republican victory eliminated Senator Pat McCarran from the chairmanship of the Internal Security Committee where he is most needed to care for unfinished business. Also the knowledge and capacity of Senator Homer Ferguson ought not to be lost in the reshuffling of committees.

What is most needed is a high policy decision limiting the number of committees engaged in this activity and allocating their fields of work. There should be no competitive investigating as that would help the subversives who could find a favorable committee to which to present their cases, as was done in the instance of the Tydings Committee.

Further, it would be politically stupid for any Republicans to gang

Landlord Dislikes Treasure Hunt

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Elpidio Gonzalez Avila has gone to jail on charges of damaging private property. His landlord said Elpidio dug such a deep hole in the floor of his ground floor apartment that part of a house wall fell in.

Elpidio said he was digging for buried treasure and would pay for the damage when he found the treasure.

up on Senator Joe McCarthy either by competitive investigations or by withholding funds. That might produce the assumption that no investigation is really wanted.

McFarlands, Hedges Win In New Loop

McFarlands and Hedges basketball teams collected victories Wednesday night in a new independent semi-pro cage league in Circleville Armory.

Both games were similar in playing style, with the eventual winners taking early leads and protecting them throughout the encounter.

Too scorers during the evening's play were Jim Weaver and Marvin Spangler of the Hedges quintet, each with 22 points. Ken Reid scored 21 for the McFarlands; Co. I was paced by Don Olney with 20 points, and Bowser's 16 counters were tops for the Farmers' Exchangers.

Demaret Sneaks In To Win Tourney

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (P)—The spotlight was on the big threesome of Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Lloyd Mangrum, but when payoff time came, the man in the center of the stage was Jimmy Demaret.

Such was the scene Wednesday when smiling Jimmy won the "Battle of the Texans" and the $10,000 Thunderbird Country Club Invitational golf tournament. Demaret captured the 54-hole special event with scores of 69-65-67-201, which was 15 strokes under par for the 6,300-yard course.

DeMarco To Miss Herman Match

BOSTON (P)—A sprained ankle suffered doing road work will keep New York lightweight Paddy DeMarco out of his scheduled nationally televised boxing bout with Babe Herman of Los Angeles at Boston Arena Saturday night.

Replacing DeMarco will be Harold (Baby Face) Jones of Detroit in the 10-rounder.

Rihl Connects On Difficult 7-10 Split

A second spectacular bowling achievement for this year took place Wednesday night during league games in Moose Alleys.

Les Rihl, rolling for the Eselman's team, connected on the exceedingly difficult 7-10 split to make a spare out of a usual nine-pin mark.

Rihl bounced the 7-pin from the boards across the alley into the 10-pin for the outstanding shot.

Unlike Mrs. Harold Leist, who was the only other kegler this year to turn the trick, Rihl did not pitch forward into a dead faint.

After all, he had been meaning to do it when he lined up for the shot, hadn't he?

OSU Entomologist Tells Of County's Insect Problems

Crop Rotation Best Way To Control Pests

Corn And Wheat Crops Aided By Proper Planting

T. H. Parks, extension entomologist of Ohio State University, led a discussion on "Prevention and Control of Common Farm Insect Pests" at an extension meeting held Tuesday in Pickaway County courthouse.

Dr. Parks pointed out crop rotation such as is usually practiced in Pickaway County is one of the best means known of preventing insect damage to crops.

Common insects affecting corn in the county are the corn borer, corn root worm and beetle, corn aphids, wire worms and sod web-worm.

Corn root worms and beetles become a problem when field corn is grown in the same field continuously. Root worms and beetles are most easily controlled by rotation of crops, since corn is the only crop they like.

CORN BORERS are being controlled by planting resistant Ohio Hybrids and observing the corn planting dates of May 10 to May 20.

Corn aphids are likewise being controlled by planting resistant Ohio Hybrids.

Corn borer infestation has been greatest where hybrids of unknown quantities and corn has been planted extremely early (May 1) or late (last of May or 1st of June).

The use of insecticides to control corn borer in field corn in Pickaway County has not been and is not practical unless borer population increases appreciably over present expectations.

It appears resistant hybrids and observation of planting dates can control them. Winter plowing is the present best known means of controlling wireworms and sod web-worms. The plowing exposes them to freezing and kills them.

It was pointed out by the specialist that for many years observance of the fly-free date for wheat seeding has controlled the Hessian Fly in Pickaway County and will continue to do so. Fly-free date is October 2.

PARKS POINTED out also that spittle bugs are now recognized as the major pest of clover and alfalfa. Last year this pest did more damage to the meadows and pastures of Pickaway County than ever before.

They are easily controlled by spraying meadows and pastures the last week of April or the first week of May with benzene hexachloride or toxaphene.

Last year farmers reported increases in yields of meadows and pastures of from 25 to 50 percent where spittle bugs were controlled.

Aphids are one of our greatest pests of canning peas, according to Dr. Parks. They are easily controlled by spraying with parathion, which is the best known insecticide for their control.

Small grain contamination from weevils, rats and mice and birds is and will be a problem in the sale of grain for milling purposes, he added.

The pure food and drug act enforcement is cracking down on grain that has been visited by the above pests.

Cleaning bins thoroughly and spraying with DDT before harvest and making grain bins bird-proof and rat-proof are going to be musts if the stored grain is to be moved on for milling purposes.

This is not only true for farm storage bins, but for local elevators as well.

The next extension meeting will be at 1:30 p. m. next Tuesday, when results of four years of fertilizer demonstrations in the county, and "how much fertilizer can I afford to use," will be discussed. Everyone is invited.

County Doubles Purchases Of Defense Bonds

Seventy-five of the 88 Ohio counties reported increased sales of Series E and H defense bonds during the last month of 1952 and gave the state a dollar gain of $4,928,321 over sales of E bonds during December.

Judge William D. Radcliff, chairman of the Pickaway County defense bond committee, reported sales of the two bonds in Pickaway County during the month were $35,616 and compare to E Bond sales of $17,826 of the previous year.

In the 12-month period, Ohio sales of E and H bonds showed monthly increases except for one month, which was November, Radcliff said.

In May, the Treasury Department announced changes in the Series E bond, raising the interest rate from 2.9 to three per cent, and in June, the new current income Series H Bond was introduced.

Officials of the Ohio staff of the defense bonds division predicted that monthly sales of E and H bonds would continue to rise in 1953.

Actual dollar sales of Series E and H bonds in the state during December were $23,449,407, and compare to E bond sales of $18,521,086 for the same month last year.

Red China Downs U. S. B29, Grabs 11 Of Its Crew

Bitter Propaganda Blast Poured Out By Premier, Rapping Yank 'Extension' Of Orient War

TOKYO (AP)—Red China's No. 2 boss charged today that a U. S. B29 Superfort violated Manchurian skies Jan. 12 and was shot down by Communist night fighters.

U. S. Far East Air Forces confirmed the loss of the bomber but asserted it was 12 to 15 miles inside North Korea, well below the Yalu River boundary of Manchuria, when crippled.

"The B29 transmitted a 'Mayday' distress signal and it is assumed it was shot down at that point," said an official FEAF announcement.

The Reds alleged the B29 was shot down nine miles northwest of Antung, big Communist airbase across the Yalu from Korea.

Peiping radio broadcast the charge and an angry protest by Red China's Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En-lai. It quoted him as saying 11 crewmen, including a colonel and a major, were captured and that three other crewmen "died after parachuting."

CHOU IS second only to Mao Tse-tung in the Chinese Communist regime. Broadcasting his protest, which came on the heels of an earlier propaganda charge, underlined the importance the Reds attached to the accusation.

"The Chinese people are furious over this violation of our skies," Chou was quoted. "The American government... has planned dangerous preparations to enlarge the war in the last two months."

"The Central People's Government of the Chinese People's Republic recognizes that the plans being adopted by the American government are not only affecting the Far East but are threatening to the peace of the world."

Chou charged that U. S. planes "violated our northeastern skies" three other times in the past two months "on Nov. 28, Dec. 8 and Dec. 13." It is an old propaganda charge. Allied pilots are under strict orders not to cross the Yalu River, not even if engaged in furious air combat.

The Air Force said the B29 in question "was on a regularly scheduled mission dropping psychological warfare news leaflets over North Korean cities" on the night of Jan. 12.

"The aircraft was plotted and followed throughout its flight by friendly radar stations," said the announcement. "When over a town approximately 12 to 15 miles south of the Yalu River, the B29 'plotted' merged on the radar screens with the plots of 12 hostile fighter aircraft."

"IT DISAPPEARED from radar contact immediately with the fighter plots. The B29 carried no high-explosive bombs. A normal B29 crew of 14 officers and airmen were aboard."

The announcement did not rule out the possibility the Superfort might have glided into Manchuria after it was hit.

The Air Force confirmed the names of three of the crewmen whom the Communists said were captured after the four-engine bomber was shot down.

They were Col. John Knox Arnold Jr. (home town not available), Maj. William H. Baumer of Lewisburg, Pa., and Capt. Eugene V. Clanton, N. Y.

Chou's statement identified Arnold as commander of the 581st Air Resupply Communications Wing of the U. S. 13th Air Force; and Baumer as operations officer of the 91st Squadron, Yokota, Japan.

In Washington, the Defense Department said it was presumed the Communist broadcasts referred to one of two B29s acknowledged lost in North Korea last week in air combat. Those were the first Superforts lost since Sept. 20.

Starling Horde Has Custodian Fully Baffled

LOVINGTON, N. M., (AP)—Jesse Benson figures he'll just have to get a grip on his patience and wait until the starlings leave.

The normally mild-mannered courthouse custodian has just had his annual go-round with the Lea County Commission about the pests. He'll have to bear with the raucous screams of the speckled birds until they decide they like some place else better.

The session with the commission started quietly enough.

"Jesse," asked Commissioner Carl Denson, "what have you done about those starlings?"

Jesse rose from his chair, staring at the commission with a glare usually reserved for those who walk on public lawns.

"I've thought about them. I've dreamed about them. And I've called to the Lord about them," Jesse declared.

"Every morning at daylight they leave those trees and I take hope. Then, every evening they return and bring back a lot of friends from West Texas."

"I have come to think that starlings were just created to co-operate with county commissioners in driving custodians crazy."

"We tried shooting them with a shotgun, but you shoot 18 and up in the air go 999,982 live ones, laughing fit to kill. We tried Roman candles. They got used to them, and now I think they bring their friends up from Old Mexico to see the fireworks."

"How about putting aluminum owls in the trees," Denson asked. "These birds of ours wouldn't be afraid of stainless steel owls," opined Jesse. "I think they got crossed with eagles. They just plain ain't afraid of anything."

HOLDING HIS FIRST press conference in the White House, presidential press secretary James Hagerty (right, facing camera) announces that President Eisenhower will face the American people every month in precedent-setting TV-radio reports, and will continue weekly news conferences.

Flu-Like Disease Hits Half Of States, But It's Mild

By The Associated Press
Flu, or what feels like flu, has spread into more than half the 48 states, but the outbreaks so far generally have been mild.

The Army, a state university, a steel company and some local officials have taken steps to combat the infections with vaccine.

Bulk of cases is in the central part of the nation. Texas, Tennessee and Arkansas have been particularly hard hit.

Texas reported from 200,000 to 250,000 flu cases. Arkansas had the greatest number of cases of upper respiratory infections in its history. The disease was reaching the epidemic stage in Tennessee.

The eastern and western states were comparatively free of outbreaks, although Florida reported some schools closed to prevent the further spread of an influenza-like disease.

THE ARMY is giving flu vaccine to the troops in Korea, Europe and at ports of embarkation for those countries. An outbreak of flu in Bavaria this week resulted in nine deaths in Munich, filled the city's hospitals and closed 27 school rooms.

The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. announced it is giving flu shots to its 44,000 employees in Pittsburgh; Aliquippa, Pa., and Cleveland Mills, at its New York and Michigan ore mines and at various fabricating plants throughout the country. The treatments are voluntary.

In Ohio, where the incidence so far is low, Ohio State University is planning a voluntary flu immunization program to run through next week.

Vaccine also was administered at the Syracuse (N. Y.) School for Mental Defectives and at the Cook County jail in Chicago.

The reports indicate at least one type flu bug (A-prime) is responsible for some of the outbreaks. Some health authorities believe several types of minor virus infections are involved.

Ike Abandons Peterson Bid

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times said today President Dwight D. Eisenhower has abandoned plans to name former Nebraska Gov. Val Peterson U. S. ambassador to India.

Instead, the Times said, Eisenhower will appoint Peterson a member of the White House staff, a post not requiring Senate confirmation. The Times said Nebraska's two Republican senators, Hugh Butler and Dwight Griswold, "successfully thwarted" the chief executive's desire to have Peterson succeed former Connecticut Gov. Chester Bowles in the New Delhi post. They labeled Peterson, a fellow Republican, as "personally obnoxious."

Benson Streamlining U. S. Agency For Better Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, in his first official act, today regrouped agriculture Department agencies to secure "better and more effective coordination."

This regrouping, he said, is the forerunner of a "gradual streamlining" of the department designed to bring about economy and greater efficiency.

In announcing the changes in a formal statement, the new GOP administration farm chief took a jab at the size to which his Democratic predecessors had built the department.

"The U. S. Department of Agriculture, largest of all the nation's civilian agencies, swollen into a huge bureaucracy of 20 agencies and bureaus in the last 20 years, is getting a major overhauling," the state said.

In a separate memorandum to department employees the new secretary served notice he would expect them to give a "full day's work for a day's pay."

The department agencies and bureaus were divided into four major groups, with the office of solicitor maintaining its present independent status.

Today's action in itself did not have the effect of reducing the number of employees or of eliminating any of the department's present activities.

GEN. CLAY TIPPED AS DEFENSE CHOICE

Creedon, Veteran Detective, Joins Slaying Investigators

James J. Creedon, veteran detective especially well known in Circleville was hired Thursday to "help bring out the true facts" in the slaying of Daniel Ruff Jr.

Creedon, former member of the Columbus city detective bureau, has been retired for several years.

During and since his service with the Columbus department, he has handled many homicide and other types of cases.

He will investigate on behalf of the defense.

Ruff, widely known Pickaway county farmer, was found slain in his bed Jan. 15 in the Ruff home near South Bloomfield. His tall, 34-year old wife, Mary Agnes Ruff, is being held in Pickaway County jail on an accusation of first degree murder.

Taking two children with her, Mrs. Ruff drove the family car to the home of her mother in Columbus after the slaying. She has said she "doesn't remember" shooting her husband.

ANNOUNCEMENT of Creedon's entrance into the tense and confused picture of the tragedy came after he conferred with Pickaway County Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff and Joe Adkins, chief defense counsel.

Creedon arrived in Circleville before dawn Thursday. He lives in Groveport.

The detective is especially well known in this community through his special work for the annual Pumpkin Show. He has been serving as special detective at the festival for the last quarter-century.

"Mr. Creedon's only purpose here at this time is to try and bring out the true facts," a statement issued by defense counsel said.

Spinster Eats Again; Knows Tax Law Now

CLEVELAND (AP)—Now that she understands the income tax laws, Miss Ray Gilbert is eating again.

But the 75-year-old spinster was unable immediately to convince her sister, Miss Harriet, 76, that they did not owe the government. And the sister still refused food.

Miss Ray said, however, she believed everything "was all right for the present."

They stopped eating and heating their home several days ago as the climax to months of worrying about taxes they mistakenly believed they owed the government.

Then Wednesday, a reporter persuaded Miss Ray to talk things over with the Internal Revenue Department office. She learned that instead of owing money, she had a $33 refund coming on the tax she paid last year.

Miss Ray said she had been getting a pension of $125 monthly as a retired teacher, and had claimed Miss Harriet as a dependent since she retired 10 years ago. Both became convinced Miss Ray shouldn't have claimed a dependent since Miss Harriet had money in the bank. They said they were afraid those "government men" would take away their house.

ment issued by defense counsel said.

It was believed one of the first moves to acquaint Creedon with details and background of the case will be to have him visit the scene of the slaying, a small white farmhouse on Route 23 about two miles north of South Bloomfield.

Sheriff Radcliff, meanwhile, took cognizance of increasing interest in the case here by emphasizing the role of his department. He said:

"THE SOLE interest our department has in this case is, naturally, only to bring out the facts—and to leave the facts decide what action is taken."

"A woman has been accused of first degree murder because there is evidence to support that accusation. If, on the other hand, we find evidence against the accusation as it now stands, we will of course bring that out, too."

"I want to emphasize to the public that we—as officers sworn to uphold the law—cannot have a personal feeling in the case beyond what the concrete evidence dictates."

"We will continue to investigate this case—which has many angles—with all the facilities at our command, and we will do it strictly on the line of facts as we find them."

"We cannot and we will not be swayed by rumors. The taxpayers didn't hire us to do that."

In developments of the case itself, there was little to be officially announced since Mrs. Ruff was permitted to attend the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Rose Weir. Mrs. Weir died of a heart attack Sunday in a Columbus hospital.

NO RESULTS have been announced on ballistic tests made in Columbus shortly after the shooting. Two slugs taken from the victim's head were to have been compared with markings made by a revolver found among Mrs. Ruff's belongings when she was taken into custody.

Mrs. Ruff said she bought the revolver nearly two years ago with her husband's knowledge.

Announcement of results from the ballistic tests may come Friday. Sheriff Radcliff, along with Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer and Ray Davis, special assistant prosecutor, planned to go to Columbus Thursday afternoon.

Sheriff Radcliff said he visited the Ruff home again Wednesday night to seek information needed to clear up a number of unexplained parts of the story. He had no announcement to make in connection with his latest questioning.

8 Ike Cabinet Aides Starting On New Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's administration quickened its pace today with eight Cabinet members in office and the new chief executive pushing work on his State of the Union message to Congress.

Eisenhower set aside time to go over a fresh draft of the message with a speech-writing aide. The President will go before the Senate and House for the first time to deliver it in person, possibly next week.

Capping his first work in the White House, Eisenhower looked on in the East Room of the mansion Wednesday as all but one of his nine choices for Cabinet positions were sworn into office by the Chief Justice Vinson.

The ceremony took place shortly after the Senate confirmed the eight, and also Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, the new federal security administrator.

Secretary of Defense-designate Charles E. Wilson, Eisenhower's choice for the remaining Cabinet post, wasn't on hand because of controversy over legality of his prospective appointment.

The new President looked as chipper as he said he felt, and the desk in the green-tinted oval office had been cleared of the many mementoes and souvenirs which crowded it when Harry S. Truman was president.

There was one reminder of Truman in plain sight, however—a slim, leather-bound volume inscribed in gilt letters, "Building America's Health," a report recently made by a commission Truman appointed to study the nation's health problems.

Bolton To Speak

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Oliver P. Bolton (R-Ohio) will speak for the Ohio Republican delegation in the House Jan. 29 in observance of the 110th birthday of the late President William McKinley.

Wilson Dispute May Turn Ike To Old Friend

GOP Senators Tell President Ex-G. M. Boss Must Sell Stock

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Lucius Clay, President Eisenhower's former chief of staff in Europe, was reported today under consideration for the defense post if the Senate does not confirm Charles E. Wilson.

Informed sources said Clay is Eisenhower's likely second choice for the top Cabinet post.

They said Clay would present a problem in that the regulations forbid anyone to serve as defense secretary who has been in the Army within 10 years prior to appointment.

The Senate can set this rule aside as it did some years ago to make it possible for Gen. George Marshall to serve in that position. Clay, a native of Marietta, Ga., has retired from the Army.

Some Republican senators have sent word to Eisenhower that the Senate would probably reject Wilson as new defense secretary if he holds on to his stock in his former firm, General Motors.

Indications were that the White House would make a decision within a day or two. Senate leaders insisted they did not know what the decision would be.

"IT'S UP TO them," Republican Leader Taft of Ohio told reporters, referring to the new President and his advisers. "My job is to get them (presidential appointments) confirmed when they send them down here."

Taft late Wednesday won voice confirmation of eight new Cabinet members, all except the defense secretaryship, for which Eisenhower has not made a formal nomination.

A few hours later each of the eight took the oath from Chief Justice Vinson at a White House ceremony. So did Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, the new federal security administrator.

Strong opposition to Wilson's appointment has developed in the Senate on the ground that he holds stock in General Motors, biggest Defense Department private contractor.

The question has been raised whether he would run afoul a law which bars federal officials from dealing with firms in which they have even an indirect financial interest.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he knew of no change in Eisenhower's intention to nominate Wilson.

The Senate Armed Services Committee would have to pass on Wilson's nomination before the Senate (Continued on Page Two)

325 Stubborn Pennsy Cons Still Hold Out

BELLEFONTAINE, Pa. (AP)—A stubborn band of 325 convicts, still holding six prison guards as hostages, stood fast in their barricaded cell block with the next move apparently up to state officials and a force of state troopers encircling the prisoners.

As the fourth day of the outbreak dawned, the troopers and prison guards, armed with submachine guns, tear gas, small arms and riot sticks were ready to move if state officials decided an all-out assault is the only solution.

State Atty. Gen. Robert E. Woodside, acting on direct orders from Gov. John S. Fine, has been in charge of the efforts to dislodge the convicts in Cell Block A, center of the original outbreak Monday night. He has refused to confirm or deny reports that a showdown may develop today by sending the troopers into the cell block.

The convicts are in the unique position of controlling the store-room containing canned foods, thus assuring them and their hostages at least seven days' supply of food.

This situation, plus a "get-tough" order from Fine Wednesday, gave support to reports that the assault was being considered by state officials as the last available avenue open for ending the riot.

House Panel OKs New Code

Vote In Legislature Expected Next Week

COLUMBUS (AP)—The bill to streamline Ohio's laws, key to a legislative logjam, is headed for a quick House vote and likely approval by the Senate if it weathers the House test.

After a record 16 hearings in two weeks, the House Judiciary Committee early today gave the bill its unanimous stamp of approval. But, because a number of amendments remain to be typed in order to put the big bill in proper form, a House vote will be impossible until Tuesday.

Once approval of the 5,900-page bill is assured, the floodgates will be thrown open to the dammed-up number of bills legislators have been holding in their pockets and desks. Until the fate of the big re-codification measure, which simplifies and renubmers all of Ohio's laws, is known, legislators will not know whether to fit their proposed laws into the old code or the new.

Committee approval of the three-foot-thick measure came after a marathon session which broke up at 2:20 a. m. today.

WEDNESDAY night was the deadline for approval or rejection set by its chairman, Rep. Kenneth A. Robinson (R-Marion) and he was determined to get the measure to the House floor in order to speed all other legislative business.

There were two actions taken to allay fears the code revision bureau might have made inadvertent changes in substantive law in its five-year, $300,000 effort to make Ohio's code a body of law even a layman can understand.

The first was a "savings" clause which provides the old law shall apply if the simplified wording of the new code changes the meaning of a law.

The second was a move in the House to create a six-member joint commission. House Speaker William Saxbe said it would be a "sounding board" for the rest of the legislative session for those who feel errors have crept into the new code. It could recommend later corrective amendments.

One Of 6 Youths Freed In Holdup

WINCHESTER, Ky. (AP)—One of six persons accused in the $58 hold-up of a Winchester service station was acquitted in Clark Circuit Court Wednesday.

Charles Robert Rogers, 19, of Owensville, was freed after he told the court he took no part in the holdup and tried to get away from the others accused of the Jan. 5 robbery. Guilty pleas were entered for Helen Moon and Jean Crain, both of Miamisburg, O., and juries fixed their punishment at two years. Miss Bobbie Cole and Robert L. Davis, also of Miamisburg, drew 21 years on armed robbery convictions. William H. Walden of Miamisburg was given five years for robbery.

Jim Creedon, Veteran Detective, Joins Investigation Of Ruff Case

Ruff, and one of his two sisters, Miss Bonnie Ruff, have been spending nights in the home of the married couple. They said they were present the night of the murder.

It was expected the accusation against Mrs. Ruff will be presented to the January grand jury, which begins meeting next Monday.

UP TO Thursday, at least, baffling phases of the case included the following:

1. The mother of the victim has yet to clear up for investigators just when she became certain her son was dead. She said she and her daughter, Bonnie, were awakened by shots which came from the bedroom used by her son and his wife.

The victim's mother said she hurried through a double cupboard to her left and into a utility room. It had not been learned why she did not try to reach her son's bed by the shortest route—out of her own bedroom, into the hall and through the opposite door leading to a point near the foot of her son's bed.

Arriving in the utility room, she said, she was almost immediately attacked by her daughter-in-law, who threatened her with a revolver. They struggled inside a narrow hallway, and the daughter-in-law, broke away and ran downstairs—after firing two wild shots, according to Ruff's mother.

"Then, she said, 'I ran back to my room the same way I had come to get something to protect myself.'"

"Didn't you look into or go into your son's room first?", she was asked.

"No," she replied, "I knew it was too late."

"Didn't you at least call to your son?" was the next question.

"No," the elderly woman replied, "I knew it wouldn't do any good."

GENERAL impression among investigators, from the story told by the victim's mother, is that once she returned to her bedroom she stayed there until a school bus came for Danny, 7-year-old son of the victim. She and Bonnie, they said, barricaded themselves in the room through fear of Mrs. Ruff and "although we heard the car start away we weren't sure she was gone."

The school bus driver was urged from one of the bedroom windows to enter the home, according to a story told the morning of the slaying, and then the women came out of their barricaded room.

Presumably it wasn't until then that the victim's mother knew for certain her son was dead.

As far as could be learned, the elderly woman did not cry out to her son while she said she was struggling with her daughter-in-law.

Actually, according to Pickaway County Coroner Ray Carroll, Ruff probably remained alive but unconscious for from two to four hours after he was shot. Best estimates as to the time of the shooting apparently center around 3 a. m.

2. The victim's mother has frequently told of two shots fired by her daughter-in-law while they struggled just inside a narrow hallway which has white plaster walls and ceiling. A long search by a number of investigators thus far has failed to find any trace of the slugs from such shots, or a any trace of a possible ricochet.

A THIN GREEN rug on the floor of the hallway was partially removed without showing any trace of the shooting.

The victim's mother told how, with her left hand, she tried to wrest the gun away from the younger woman while, with her right hand, she "tried to grab her face." The older woman's left hand was lacerated between thumb and forefinger when authorities arrived at the scene. At one time she was understood to say her daughter-in-law needed "both hands to fire the gun."

Sheriff Radcliff said an examination of the accused farm-wife immediately after her arrest in Columbus showed no bruises, cuts or the like — and, presumably, no scratches.

3. A shotgun found lying, jammed, on the back porch of the farm house shortly after authorities arrived has yet to be explained. The porch is low and, when found, the gun was lying with its stock near the edge of the porch, the barrel pointed almost on a straight line toward the house.

It was one of two shotguns owned by Ruff, the other one being found unloaded upstairs near the head of his bed. A hired man at the farm said the gun found on the back porch was usually kept inside on the first floor.

Sheriff Radcliff said at the time that tests for fingerprints would be made on the gun if it became necessary.

4. THE VICTIM'S mother and her daughter, from their bedroom window where they said they barricaded themselves could have had a wide view westward toward Route 23 in daylight, from this window, they could see almost the full length of the farm lane between the house and highway.

They said they heard Mrs. Ruff

drive away in the family car but feared she had not left the premises, it being dark at the time. Both the mother of the victim and her daughter described Mrs. Ruff as a "very poor" driver.

5. The victim's mother and her daughter told officers on their arrival that there had been no dispute of any kind between Ruff and his wife the evening prior to the slaying. They said the married couple "had just the usual spats and nothing more."

6. A towel reportedly found, close to or under the body of the victim by the undertaker has yet to be explained. It was blood-stained and a close study failed to locate it in photographs taken at the scene shortly after authorities arrived.

7. Reports attributed to members of the Columbus police department were that a revolver found among Mrs. Ruff's belongings at the time of her arrest showed four exploded cartridges, three unused shells and two empty chambers in the nine-shot cylinder.

8. Shortly after he arrived on the scene, Sheriff Radcliff found what he said were blood stains at several places on the floor of the married couple's bedroom and blood spots on the second floor. The victim's mother said many of the apparent blood spots probably came from her bleeding hand, cut in a struggle with her daughter-in-law. Others, she said, could not have been caused in that manner.

9. WHEN AND why the victim's mother and her daughter began spending nights at the home of the married couple is still confused. On the morning of the slaying, it was said the custom had started last summer, lack of a furnace in the old homestead a short distance south being mentioned as one of the chief reasons.

More recently, however, the victim's mother said the change first began a few months ago, particularly because it was too lonesome with only her and her daughter in the older building.

10. A farm worker hired by the Ruffs said the slain man had spent a large part of the day before his death at a sale in London.

Ruff's mother however, said he remained at the farm all that day, working with the hired man.

11. Both the victim's mother and her daughter told of hearing Mrs. Ruff fire two shots downstairs shortly before she left in the car. No particular reason why she should do this has ever been offered with the exception of a comment by the victim's mother, who said:

"The only reason I can think of is that the two children didn't want to go with her and that she fired

Departmental administration: Richard D. Applin, assistant to the secretary — Hearing examiners, library, office of budget and finance, office of information, office of personnel and office of plant and operations.

The new secretary is faced with a number of problems which will require attention within the next several weeks and months. They include:

1. Determination of a policy on whether the U. S. should continue participation in an international wheat agreement. This agreement, which will expire in July unless extended, is designed to help stabilize wheat prices and supplies in world markets. Under it, the U. S. is selling wheat abroad at about 6 cents a bushel below the domestic price.

2. Review of the department's budget and a decision on whether to recommend cuts, particularly in a controversial 250 million dollar subsidy program for soil conservation.

3. Review of spring crop production goals, set by his predecessor, Charles F. Brannan.

4. Determination of whether the department should broaden price support operations on perishable products.

acted, and Chairman Saltonstall (R-Mass) said it will do nothing until a name is submitted officially.

ONE HIGHLY placed GOP senator, who asked that his name not be used, said efforts were being made to persuade Wilson to sell his G. M. stock.

"Mr. Wilson is a stubborn man," this senator added. "He takes the position that they should have known what they were doing when they offered him the job, that asking him to sell his stock is a reflection on his integrity."

Wilson could not be confirmed now, the senator said, "even if they came up with some maneuver" like changing the law to fit his case or the issuance of a presidential order which would bar him from passing upon G. M. contracts. He added that the White House had been appraised of this.

The other eight Cabinet members were confirmed in a group Wednesday, after several hours of discussion. Then, in an 11-minute ceremony at the White House with the Eisenhowers and their own relatives looking on, they took the oath in this order:

John Foster Dulles, secretary of state; George M. Humphrey, secretary of the Treasury; Herbert Brownell Jr., attorney general; Arthur E. Summerfield, postmaster general; Douglas McKay, secretary of the interior; Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture; Sinclair Weeks, secretary of commerce, and Martin P. Durkin, secretary of labor.

No dissenting votes were heard in the Senate on confirmation of the eight Cabinet members, although two senators had asked to be on record in opposition.

SEN. YOUNG (R-ND) said he was dubious about Secretary of Agriculture Benson's attitude on continuing government farm price supports at present levels beyond 1934.

Sen. Magnuson (D-Wash) said he differed with Secretary of the Interior McKay on public power projects.

There was a lot of evident maneuvering in the Wilson case.

Saltonstall told reporters Wilson had telephoned him and offered to come before the committee again "to clarify" his earlier testimony. Saltonstall said he told Wilson the committee could not act now until it received an official nomination.

W. B. PERSONS, Eisenhower's assistant for congressional liaison, conferred at length with Saltonstall. The latter would give no details, saying only that "we must keep abreast of the facts."

Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), one of the first to raise questions on the Wilson nomination, also got a telephone call from Wilson. What they talked about was not disclosed.

Caught in the Wilson stalemate were four other Eisenhower selections for top defense posts: Roger M. Kyes, deputy secretary of defense; Robert T. B. Stevens, secretary of the Army; Robert B. Anderson, secretary of the Navy; and Harold E. Taibott, secretary of the Air Force.

2 Drivers Fined In City Court

And Glen Jarvis of Sciotoville was fined $20 and costs for speeding at 70. He was arrested by State Patrolman R. G. Hackworth.

Truman Back Home, Looking For Job To Avoid Devilment

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Harry S. Truman, welcomed home in roaring receptions that moved him to the verge of tears, began looking for work today lest idleness lead him into "devilment."

After nearly eight turbulent years and unprecedented responsibilities at a time of world crisis, he suddenly found himself with nothing to do but unpack all his gear and find a job.

Harry Truman, ex-President of the United States, is a restless man who has been working 17 hours a day in the White House in Washington, and he's already worrying how long he can "take it easy."

"It's not hard work that gets a man into trouble," he told reporters. "It's the lack of it. When a fellow has nothing to do he gets into devilment."

Offers of high-paying jobs continued to pour in from all parts of the country but he withheld any acceptance until he can find something to his liking and suitable to his talents.

He already has rented a private office in the Federal Reserve Bank Building in nearby Kansas City and put Miss Rose Conway, his personal stenographer, to work on his mail.

The ex-President and Mrs. Truman, happy to be home again, stepped from the presidential private car Wednesday night to find a crowd estimated at 10,000 gathered around the little depot to give them an emotional greeting.

Truman choked up as he gazed at the assembled thousands, some of whom had been waiting for hours.

"I appreciate this reception," he told them. "It's magnificent. There's not any more I can say except that we are back home for good."

Another throng of 1,500 waited in the street when the Trumans drove up to their big, white frame home on North Delaware, and there were more cheers.

Truman was deeply touched at the depot when Mayor Robert Weatherford Jr. told him, "You'll always be Mr. President to us."

"I can't tell you how much I appreciate this reception," he said. "It's magnificent. There's not any more I can say except that we are back home for good."

precipitate this reception," he said, his voice breaking. "I never expected anything like this. Therefore, it is closer to my heart."

But his inevitable humor came to his rescue.

"I am in the army of the unemployed," he said. And then, talking again like the Democratic campaigner of "give 'em hell" fame who credits the employment situation to party policies, he couldn't resist adding, "but it is a very small army."

He said Mrs. Truman had appointed him the "official unpacker" of the "goods and chattels" and he had to get that job done. After that, he said with a grin, he'll be "out of a job" and "open to dinner invitations" to keep from "going hungry."

Truman's big ambition is to lecture to high school and college students on the United Nations and the necessity for preserving the peace in an atomic age, and to convince them that the future will be one of wonderful advancement once atomic energy can be devoted entirely to peace.

He wants to travel abroad, but those plans haven't jelled. He also wants to see constructed on the family farm at nearby Grandview a 1½ million dollar cultural center to house his presidential papers and provide a place for student research in music, the arts, history and government. Fund raising for this project has already been started by a group of his close friends.

Margaret, the Truman daughter, didn't come to Missouri with her parents. She had to go to New York to keep a singing engagement.

That Contrary Old Man Blamed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Who ordered Maj. John Eisenhower home from Korea to see his father inaugurated as president?

Dwight D. Eisenhower learned the answer just before Tuesday's inauguration by asking President Truman:

"Sir, may I ask you a question: Who ordered my boy home from Korea? He's been giving me hell about it."

"I did," Truman said. "Just tell him that contrary old man in the White House did it."

The major was given 15 days home leave.

Railroad Cars Fall On Highway

STUEBENVILLE (AP)—Fourteen railroad cars loaded with iron ore jumped the tracks on a bridge at nearly Mingo Junction today, and two toppled 60 feet onto a busy highway and another railroad right-of-way.

Only one person was injured, Miss Sally Hotchkiss, 26, of Martins Ferry, who miraculously escaped death when a car loaded with 75 tons of ore crashed down on an automobile she was driving along State 7. Miss Hotchkiss, who was on her way to work as a nurse at Ohio Valley Hospital here, arrived at the hospital as a patient.

City Enters Ohio Traffic Safety Test

Joining with other Ohio municipalities in the traffic safety program, Circleville has been enrolled in the Ohio Traffic Safety Contest for 1953 by Mayor Ed Amey.

In entering this community in the contest, Mayor Amey pledged:

"Realizing that cooperative action by all governmental groups and individual citizens is necessary to carry on an effective program of traffic accident prevention, our city will lend every assistance possible to help make Ohio the safest state."

The Ohio Traffic Safety Council, which sponsors the Contest with the active support of the Ohio Department of Highways, pointed out:

"Traffic safety is all-important at this time, as evidenced by the motor vehicle accident problem that is resulting from the increasing use of the streets and highways."

Use Of More Gas, Auto Tax On Roads Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—One solution to the higher cost of building highways may be the earmarking for that purpose of all federal gasoline and automobile taxes, Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) said today.

The government now collects about $2 billion a year from gasoline and automobile excise taxes, he said, but spends only $575 million a year on highways.

He said the House Roads Subcommittee he is to head will explore the whole problem of federal aid to states for highways, and probably will hold hearings to consider the views of state highway officials and others.

McGregor said he is concerned with road building especially in such areas as Southern Ohio, where the Atomic Energy Commission is building a plant.

Ohio officials and private groups, such as the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, are worried that state money required to match federal funds for roads in the atomic plant area may have to be diverted from other necessary highway work elsewhere in the state. The Ohio chamber has asked to meet with the Ohio congressmen on this problem.

Mrs. Hobby Says 'Salvage Good'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, new federal security administrator, says the Eisenhower administration should salvage whatever is good out of the Truman administration's programs.

Mrs. Hobby, Houston publisher and wartime director of the WAC, told the Women's Division of the Republican National Committee Wednesday that "Some of what was done in the past was sound in policy and shoddy in application, good in part and wrong in full perspective, needed at the time but now obsolescent."

City Naval Officer Helping Army Care For Its Dentures

The United States Navy is doing more than transporting the Army overseas nowadays. It is also taking care of the Army's teeth.

At least that is true at Fort Hayes where Navy Lieutenants William Rickey of Circleville and Peter Jesick of Youngstown are serving as post dental officers.

The Navy officers arrived on the post after completing a short indoctrination course at the Army's medical field service school in Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Both Navy reservists, they were recalled to active duty in October and assigned to the Army.

LT. Rickey began his dentistry career with the Navy after graduating from Ohio State in 1945. He served until 1946, when he opened his office in Circleville.

His wife, Betty Rickey, and children, Elizabeth 8, Fred 6, and Bonnie 4, live at 119 Collins Court.

When Major William Rose, chief dental officer for Ft. Hayes, leaves in February, the Navy will assume complete command of the Army teeth in Fort Hayes and in the Ohio military district.

Lentz Resigns Teaching Post

"APPROXIMATELY 1,900 persons were killed in motor vehicle accidents in Ohio during 1952. Every indication is that the number of men, women and children killed in traffic will continue to be too high unless accident prevention activities are made effective through every means that human ingenuity can devise and that organized group action can further."

The Ohio Traffic Safety Contest is for cities of 4,000 or more population. The cities are divided into seven population classifications and awards are made in each of these classifications to the communities showing the greatest traffic safety improvement for the year.

Circleville has been accorded honors for eight times in its population group in the Ohio traffic safety contest, having received honorable mention in 1950-47-46-45-44-43-41-40.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The announcement that President Eisenhower will hold regular news conferences, as Presidents Roosevelt and Truman did, settles the rumor that he'd hold few or none at all.

Like Truman, Eisenhower in the beginning may pull boners trying to answer too much too fast. In his early White House days Truman tried to answer everything yes or no. He had to learn to be careful.

One memorable mistake was when he told a news conference he had approved a speech by Henry Wallace, then his secretary of commerce. This caused international confusion when the speech turned out to be one criticizing Truman's foreign policy.

Later Truman explained he merely meant to say he had approved Wallace's right to make a speech, not the speech itself. Sometimes Truman got his facts mixed up, then had to issue corrections.

There was a time, right after he got into the Wallace jam, when it was thought here Truman might call off the news conferences. But as he became more cautious and sure of himself he seemed to enjoy them.

If Eisenhower should put his foot in his mouth, or if he thinks the reporters' questions are a little too rough on him, he may get an inclination to drop the conference idea.

He's shown small enthusiasm for news conferences. He held few during the presidential campaign and none since the election except for one in Korea where he wouldn't permit questions.

But no president, particularly a new one, can be expected to know all the answers to all the questions. He can say frankly he doesn't know, when he doesn't. Or, when he thinks it better not to answer, he can say "No comment."

Overdone, "No comment" could make news conferences useless. It must be assumed any president who holds conferences at all will answer what he can within limits of reason and security.

A president isn't doing newsmen a favor by holding conferences. Without them, he could become isolated from, and insulated against, public thinking in a hurry.

News conferences let him pump his ideas out to the public regularly and give him the benefit of public reaction. At the same time, through the newsmen, the public can quiz him on his decisions and intentions.

News conferences are one way to keep the President and the people from getting too far apart and out of step.

Eisenhower seems to realize, before holding even his first White House conference, that he can't be expected to know in detail the answer to all the questions flung at him.

His press secretary, James Hagerty, said yesterday Eisenhower may bring into the conferences with him members of his Cabinet, the department heads, who can help answer questions.

In Britain the Prime Minister and his Cabinet have to answer questions put to them in Parliament, face to face, by members of the House of Commons.

From time to time it has been suggested here that the President and his Cabinet follow the British custom by appearing before Congress to answer questions from the floor.

Nothing like that is in sight here. The plan Hagerty mentioned would be the closest approach to it. But Cabinet members here usually have held their own news conferences, individually although not regularly, except for the secretary of state. Dean Acheson had more news conferences than any other member of Truman's Cabinet.

Japs Report Seeing Reds Down U.S. B29

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese fishermen just released from Soviet captivity said Wednesday they saw Russian fighter planes and ground guns shoot down a U.S. B29 Superfort last Oct. 7 off Northern Japan.

One fisherman said he saw two Russian fighter planes chase the B29, heard gunfire and then:

"Black smoke started to stream from the American plane and it crashed into the sea at a tremendous speed."

The fishermen gave their accounts to Japanese reporters at Nemuro on the northern island of Hokkaido. Three fishing craft with 23 crewmen were released after six months of hard labor on the Russian-held island of Yuri near Hokkaido. They had been seized for allegedly poaching in Russian waters.

The accounts they gave varied in some detail but most said they saw two Soviet fighters chase a B29 while they were fishing under Soviet orders.

The fishermen said Soviet soldiers guarding them immediately ordered the fishing boats back to Yuri, where they were put under confinement. They made no mention of sighting any parachutes from the B29.

The U. S. government hotly protested the incident to Russia, demanded compensation for the "wanton and unjustifiable attack" and warned of possible grave consequences from the "reckless practice."

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

Do too many pounds give you the overweight blues? Here's a letter from a high school girl who needs to begin the "battle of the bulge":

"I am a sophomore in high school and would like to have dates like my friends. I have plenty of girl friends and boys seem to like me, but they never ask me for a date. I guess it is because I'm fat. I would like to go on a diet. Will you advise me?"

Ans.—Normal weight does make a girl look prettier and more dateable. But skip the diet idea. You don't have to diet drastically to lose extra pounds. Too many high schoolers cut their calories and omit vital, protective foods needed for pep, fun and health.

The best, easiest way is to omit fattening foods, keeping plenty of essential body-building, energy-making fuel in your daily menus. Cutting down on starchy food, fats and sweets will do the trick without harm and it's easier than you think.

Eat fruit between meals when you want a snack and substitute fruits for rich, sweet desserts. At the soda fountain, have a fresh fruit drink; no gooey sundaes.

Omit bread as much as possible. Don't eat both bread and potato at the same meal. Omit gravy, mayonnaise, whipped cream.

Eat lean meat, fish, vegetables, salads.

Exercise every day. Walk instead of riding whenever possible. Enjoy outdoor sports like skating, skiing, hiking, swimming, tennis.

Bowling and skating indoors are fun and helpful, too. You'll enjoy these sports, lose weight and meet more boys and girls. Perhaps you have makings of a basketball or hockey ace; give it a try at school.

Your clothes can make you look slimmer. Wear one-piece dresses or matched two-pieces—smooth fabrics, blouses instead of sweaters, flared skirts.

German Claims Knowledge Of Hitler's Status

BERCHTESGADEN (AP)—Bavaria's Justice Ministry disclosed Wednesday that at least one German claims to know "the present whereabouts of Adolf Hitler and can disclose it at any time after proclamation of a general amnesty for his followers."

The ministry said it had a letter claiming just that. The writer, however, did not give his name.

Justice officials here said that numerous former Nazi party members also had written the Berchtesgaden district court protesting against a possible ruling that Hitler, "our highly honored fuhrer," is legally dead.

The Nazi letter-writing campaign was prompted by an application to the court by the government trustee of Hitler's sole remaining property in Austria, Jan Vermeer's painting "Artist in his Atelier." Der Fuehrer is supposed

Average Increase Since Korea Said To Be Five Per Cent

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Top executives in most American corporations have been doing all right financially during the current business boom—although their pay gains haven't been as great percentage-wise as have those of some factory workers.

You may have guessed this. But today there's a financial report on the salaries, bonus payments and contributions to retirement funds of some 15,000 top men in 1,850 companies.

Their compensation went up by 4 to 10 per cent since the start of the Korean War, the American Management Association reports. The average among the 46 industries studied was five per cent.

This is compensation before taxes. Many an executive will tell you that often taxation, his take-home pay doesn't look that hot. And he'll add that the cost of living index went up even more—although none of the top boys pretends he actually is under-nourished.

There is wide variation among companies and among industries, AMA reports, "because of the direct relation between compensation of executives and the sales and profit performance of their companies."

Pay of top executives "depends on their ability to produce increased sales and profits," AMA notes. And bonuses play a large part, varying as much as 30 per cent among companies as their profits rise or fall.

On average, bonus payments make up 2 per cent of the total compensation of top executives.

Bonus amounts were raised in 42 of the durable goods manufacturing industries and reduced in four. In non-durable goods industries there were seven increases to nine reductions. All retail classifications were lower.

Contributions to retirement funds however, were the most consistent gainers. For all industries they rose 15 per cent, and accounted for 10 to 15 per cent of the total compensation.

County School Buys TV Set For Education

Many Pickaway County schools Tuesday had television sets installed at the generosity of appliance dealers so their youngsters and teachers might witness the inaugural.

And Pickaway Township school even had four sets available so its youngsters would not miss a move.

But for lasting education and entertainment, Williamsport school holds the record here.

Williamsport youngsters Tuesday saw the big ceremony on their own set, a permanent installation bought with an eye to the future.

JUD LANMAN, superintendent of the school, said the set was purchased last year as the result of a big scrap drive and has been installed in the auditorium.

"We bought the set with the idea of educational features, which are increasing," Lanman said. "So far, however, the features have been few and the set has been used mostly for special occasions and for entertainment."

"But one of these days, soon I hope, some station will begin specializing in educational and informative programs which will fit our school perfectly."

Lanman said the set will be available to special classes or to the school as a whole when educational programs on science, languages, history, music appreciation, manual talents or other aids are aired.

Court Upholds PUCO Order For Better Utility Service

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court held Wednesday the state can require a public utility to provide adequate service but lacks authority to condition new rates and dividend payments to stockholders on improved services.

The court handed down the decision in an appeal by the Elyria Telephone Co. from orders by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) in a rate case.

The commission approved higher rates for the company's telephone subscribers but said they could not be collected until certain improvements were completed.

The commission also ordered the company to withhold dividend payments to stockholders until the improvements were made. The court termed that order an error.

The court held the commission's order interfered with the firm's corporate management and exceeded PUCO's powers.

THE COMMISSION granted a company request for increased

rates in Elyria, North Ridgeville and LaGrange in 1950 but conditioned the boost on completion of improvements in service and facilities.

The commission later conducted a hearing in Elyria to receive complaints from telephone users. Following the hearing, the commission modified the previous rate schedule but retained the conditions for their collection.

The commission also ordered the company to include the "Gulf Road area" in determining a rate base. The court reversed that part of the order and directed the commission to correct it.

The court said the order "while not void, because of indefiniteness, is subject to correction and definition by the commission."

Commission attaches said the court decision means that hearings to receive complaints of telephone users about service no longer are necessary in considering applications for increased rates.

Columnist Sued By Columnist

WASHINGTON (AP)—Columnist Westbrook Pegler responded cheerfully Tuesday when a man greeted him as he sat in the press section at the presidential inaugural ceremonies.

Then his greeter, special process server Hugh Duffy, handed the newspaperman a court summons and a copy of a complaint in a $5,100,000 assault-libel-conspiracy suit, filed by columnist Drew Pearson.

British May Face Shortage Of Fish

There is a little task, often overlooked. That is the care of gift flowers which may have passed their prime. THE BALLOON INVASION

DR. LINCOLN LAPAZ, director of the University of New Mexico's Institute of Meteorites, tells in an article in Collier's Magazine and, for the first time, the complete story of Japan's balloon invasion of the United States during the closing days of World War II.

Dr. LaPaz served as technical director of the Second Air Force operations analysis section, and headed the investigation of reports of balloons landing in many parts of the nation, mostly in western areas.

Approximately 700 balloons made the long trip from Japan, while 300 were actually accounted for and investigated. These reports were kept top secret to prevent the Japanese from learning how successful their campaign was. Not only did they bring terror to the military, but many fires were started and some persons killed.

Dr. LaPaz says the devilish ingenuity of the Japs was clearly demonstrated by the construction of the balloons, and if the war had continued these air-borne invaders would have caused great damage.

While the balloons were incendiary in purpose, the Japs were prepared to send over germ-laden balloons, with emphasis on anthrax. This Japanese know-how is now in the hands of the Russians, who could launch a more effective campaign because of favorable air currents.

Dr. LaPaz says the balloon is no longer a toy, but a fearsome weapon of destruction which this nation may be forced to face in an all-out war.

HE DIDN'T SLEEP THERE

IN PRESENTING a bottle of 152-year-old cognac to President Eisenhower, Max Blouet, manager of the George V Hotel in Paris, discreetly informed the American press that the General had inhabited the hotel from 1944-46.

Although the record shows that General Eisenhower did not stay there a single night, the prestige that an "Eisenhower slept here" sign would bring to any hotel can be easily imagined.

Thus, if Monsieur Blouet wishes to get into the act, why not go "whole hog or none," for as any gambler knows, a large bluff carries much more weight than a mincing one. Therefore, it might be suggested that a dozen or so suites be set aside for the accommodation of the many plush American tourists who will doubtless clamor for the "Eisenhower suite."

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

It would appear that nearly every member of Congress and his administrative assistant wants to be involved, in a major way, in the investigation of Communists. It used to be that nobody wanted to serve on such committees and that reputations were destroyed by membership on them.

The political success of Senator Joe McCarthy and the growth in reputation of Senator Pat McCarran and Senator Homer Ferguson have stimulated a desire of other Senators and Representatives to get themselves into activities which are not only useful but are paying off politically. I heard that about 180 Representatives want to be on the House Committee on Un-American Activities!

Actually, investigation of the subversives is a difficult and technical task. Few are good at it. The first efforts under Representative Martin Dies were fumbling. Robert Stripling and Dr. J. B. Matthews had to learn how to question Communists and how to conduct such a committee. Since the days of Martin Dies, the techniques of such investigations have advanced considerably, so that in the Internal Security Committee, headed by Senator Pat McCarran, with J. G. Sourwine and Robert Morris as counsel, no mistakes were made. This committee came close to a grand jury proceedings.

The primary difficulty that faces most Congressional committees is that their members and counsel know nothing about Marxism, Communism or the nature of the world-wide conspiracy. Most of them do not know what the witnesses are talking about and they do not know what questions to ask. I have interviewed a number of witnesses before some of these committees and have found that they answered incorrectly and even perjured themselves because the questions were asked incorrectly and the witness was given no opportunity to rephrase the questions or answers. The Tydings Committee, whose counsel was Edward Morgan, will forever stand as a classical example of bad questioning.

Joe McCarthy has done an exceptionally competent job in unearthing the Communists in the State Department, the Institute of Pacific Relations and the United Nations. It must be remembered that Senator McCarthy was on no committee that could investigate these charges. It was only when the McCarran Committee undertook to investigate these matters that McCarthy's charges began to stand up. He had said that his entire case would stand or collapse on Lattimore.

Today, Owen Lattimore stands indicted by a federal grand jury in Washington on a perjury charge growing out of his testimony before the Internal Security Committee.

At present, it would seem that there are likely to be too many committees dealing with the same material. There is the House Committee on Un-American Activities, which continues in this field under the chairmanship of Harold Velde, an experienced investigator. The Senate Foreign Relations Committee under Senator Alexander Wiley wants to investigate the relations of Marxism to our foreign policy.

Inflammation of Pancreas May Be Difficult to Diagnose

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

EXPERIENCED physicians often can recognize some diseases almost at a glance. Others are very hard to diagnose, as they mimic other conditions.

Special tests may have to be made in a number of cases before the doctor can put his finger on the real trouble, and these may take quite some time to perform.

Pancreatitis, or inflammation of the pancreas, a gland beneath the first part of the small bowel, is one of these diseases that are hard to recognize, and this makes it seem rarer than it really is. It may mimic many other abdominal diseases, such as ruptured ulcer or ruptured bowel.

Most people these days know about insulin, and how this hormone, given off by the pancreas, is essential for the proper use of starches and carbohydrates in our food. In addition to this, the pancreas gives off certain important digestive juices.

Pain Severe

Usually an attack of pancreatitis begins a few hours after a heavy meal, or after drinking too much alcohol. The person complains of a persistent, agonizing pain just below the ribs, and a very severe backache. An important feature of this pain is that narcotics made from opium do not relieve it as they do most other types of pain.

This pain is so severe that the person appears to be in shock.

and in this condition his abdomen becomes rigid. Many times attacks such as these are mistakenly called heart attacks.

The victims of this disease usually have a history of some gall-bladder disturbance previously. The disease is more frequent in males, usually those between the ages of 40 and 60, and sufferers are apt to be overweight.

Simple blood tests, measuring the amount of certain enzymes in the blood, usually enable the physician to detect this baffling condition.

When the correct condition is recognized in time, it can generally be remedied without an operation. Sometimes nitroglycerine helps relieve the pain. A drug called tetraethyl-ammonium chloride also seems to help, while in some cases injections are made to block off certain nerves in the back.

Most cases recover under medical treatment. However, any gall-bladder disease should be cleared up after the attack has subsided.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. D.: I have heard that people having migraine have a warning sign. Is this true?

Answer: In the majority of migraine cases there is a warning of an incoming attack. However, this is not always the rule. The sign may be a depression, irritability, restlessness, loss of appetite, seeing spots before the eyes, sudden blindness, numbness, and weakness of one side of the body.

Try, Stop Me

A newspaper sent a reporter out to button-hole passing male pedestrians and ascertain their views on the Woman of Today. One of the first gents to hobble along confessed to the ripe old age of 101. "What do I think of women today?" he repeated with a cackle. "Son, I quit thinking about women almost two years ago!"

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

BILL came in for his supper, explaining, "Gee, I didn't know it was so late."

"Your supper's on a plate in the oven, Bill," said Susan, quickly.

"It's your business to know what time it is," said Will Brent when the boy came back with his plate. "If I hadn't learned that a long time ago..."

Bill did not let him finish. "Well, if you'd give me a wrist watch, like I asked..."

"I didn't own a watch until I was twenty-one."

"And I suppose you got it then because you hadn't smoked," said Nell in a level voice.

Susan got up from the table a little hastily. "Nell, will you bring out the plates? I'll fix the dessert—it's a jelly mold."

Bill was wolfing his food. Suddenly he stopped. "I forgot—I've a letter for you, Aunt Debbie. Mr. Higgins saw you drive past without stopping for the mail and gave it to me."

He produced it from his pocket, slightly crumpled. Deborah took it, glanced at it, and said delightedly, "At last!"

To Will, "It's from Rom Barcek. You may remember I spoke of him that first evening I was here. Now I'll know when he is coming!"

She looked down again at the letter but not so quickly that she did not see Will's face whiteen about the lips—just as his mother's used to.

"Why—he wrote this from New York City; he'll be here day after tomorrow!"

Susan and Nell came in with the dessert. "Who'll be here?" asked Nell.

Deborah folded the letter, smiling. "A very good friend of mine, Rom Barcek. He's very interesting—he writes books."

Nell's interest, now, was genuine. "I've never met a real author."

"You knew Mrs. Hurrell," reminded Bill.

Red rushed up Nell's cheeks. "She was old," she retorted.

"His name's funny," said Bill. "Rom. I never heard that one before."

"He's Polish. It's not an unusual name with them. Rather nice sounding, I think."

"And Barcek," Bill turned that on his tongue, then put a big spoonful of jelly in his mouth.

Susan was saying nothing. Deborah noticed how she kept her eyes on her plate. Was it awareness of her father's disapproval—or was she thinking what her father was thinking? "Oh, child, don't be that much inhibited!"

She got up from the table. The tension was becoming intolerable. "May I eat and run, Susan? And Will, I wish you'd walk over to the other house—there's an upright on the back porch which perhaps should be bolstered some before the painter gets to it. If you'd look at it..."

She was inviting the storm, she knew. But—"Let Willie get it out of his system!"

He went with her, examined the support she indicated. "That should be good for several years," he pronounced.

"If you think so," agreed Deborah and sat down on the step.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—Reorganization and rehabilitation of Post Office services and morale will be the first Eisenhower accomplishment that will directly affect and impress the American people.

Although this may seem to be a minor matter, by contrast with besetting domestic and world problems, the new President recognizes that the P. O. is the show window of the national government.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, as former Republican National Chairman, shares Eisenhower's attitude on this problem. He has already conferred with Post Office experts in the department and on Capitol Hill. Summerfield's experience as an automobile dealer and distributor gives him it is believed, a unique training in the field of delivering the mail.

PLANS SPEED—Summerfield intends to restore the two-day delivery system that was abolished by former Postmaster Jesse M. Donaldson in the interest of economy. He also plans to speed up the parcel post by utilizing planes and faster trains than Donaldson permitted. He also will reinstate the program under which misdirected mail was checked by consultation of city directories.

Post Office experts believe that these improvements can be made at small or no cost. Donaldson, for instance, testified before the House Appropriations Committee that cutting out two deliveries a day would save only $20 million a year. Now, in warning against resumption of the two-day system, he estimates that it would cost $150 million annually.

FIRST JOB—Ironically, both President Eisenhower and Summerfield suffered from the breakdown of the Post Office service during the campaign.

Letters and speeches and information affecting the candidate's discussion of major issues frequently arrived too late to be of any use. Indeed, there were semi-humorous comments that the delays were the result of "political sabotage."

But the deterioration of the service during the Christmas and New Year holidays, the worst in Post Office history, convinced Eisenhower and Summerfield that their first bread-and-butter job was to deliver the mail faster and more efficiently.

REACTION—Although he won national reputation as a politician, Summerfield wants to remove his Department from politics and patronage. This will not be a difficult task because most of the postmasters were placed under civil service during the Roosevelt and Truman regimes. Such office holders may be removed only on proof of charges filed against them.

But thousands of political hacks were blanketed into the system as postmasters under this system. In too many cities, the top man simply draws his pay, rarely visiting the office and discharging none of the duties. The real work is performed by hard-working, conscientious and underpaid deputies and assistants. No private business would put up with such waste of money and manpower for a second, Summerfield has observed.

It was expected that Donaldson, as a career servant who began as a mail carrier in Shelbyville, Ill., would try to reform this system. But he approved it because he had been brought up in it. He lacked imagination and initiative. When improvements in personnel and facilities were suggested, he would always remark, "The Post Office has been a fine going concern for almost two hundred years. I don't see any need for changes."

ELIGIBILITY—The doubt surrounding Charles E. Wilson's eligibility as Defense Secretary has created a demand for revision of what seems to have become an obsolete law. Without amendment, the nation's ablest industrialists would be barred from serving the government. Several other Eisenhower selections for top positions would be knocked out, to the President's chagrin.

The statute, which says that no federal official shall deal with a firm in which he has an interest, was first enacted when the United States was a small nation. It had no great Army, Navy or Air Force. Indeed, then airplane had not been invented.

Small firms produced weapons and equipment for our miniature military establishment. A contract of several hundred thousand dollars could make or break a corporation. There was every inducement for collusion.

But the United States could not win a war without General Motors, General Electric, the du Ponts or the Aluminum Company of America. To mention only a few of our great munitions corporations. Officials of those companies, since war has now become total, are as essential to national defense as the Eisenhowers, Bradleys and MacArthurs.

Moreover, these considerations take no account of the fact that General Motors does not need Pentagon contracts, and that "Motor Charley" does not need the job!

Keeping Abreast Of New Dagmar Probably Would Kill Most Girls

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There isn't as much of a good thing." So now she's in a new economy-size package.

She just decided she was "too much of a good thing." So now she's in a new economy-size package.

And if the Republican administration is looking for advice on how to trim down figures, Dagmar stands ready to help. Deciding her own blonde abundance was outgrowing the nation's television screens, she has trimmed her weight a full 20 pounds.

The new Dagmar, a canny lass who skyrocketed her income from $25 for her first video show to $7,500 a week for personal appearance tours, is positively slinky now instead of buxom.

"Honey"—she calls everybody that—"Too much weight stymies my mind," she said. "The fat was getting around my brain. Now I can think faster. But I'm lucky. When I diet the weight comes off all over me. I feel so little."

She said, however, whittling down her shape hadn't hurt her celebrated chest expansion—42½ inches normal, 45 expanded. Nor does she feel that her new svelte shape should stir any alarm in two potential blonde rivals—Zsa Zsa Gabor and Marilyn Monroe.

"I never did feud with anybody," she said mildly. "The country is so big there is room for all three of us—even when I breathe deeply."

"But Marilyn sure was smart to get her picture on that calendar. People have to look at a calendar to see what day it is. That way they get to see more of her."

Dagmar portrays a dumb blonde, but in real life she is about as dumb as an albino fox. She is a big, breezy, cheerful gal—as informal as a backyard clothesline hung with laundry.

"Honey, I'll tell you anything except my age and my weight—they both fluctuate too much," she said, as we sat sipping coffee in her penthouse apartment on Central Park South with her small slender husband, Danny Dayton, the comedian.

"I don't even know her weight," said Danny.

"If you ever tried to peek at those scales, I'd knock you right out of the bathroom," replied Dagmar cheerfully—and she could.

"Every woman has a right to one secret from her husband. And that's mine."

Everything about Dagmar is

Tips On Lice Control Given By County Agent

It is not uncommon these days to see cattle rubbing, scratching and digging.

In many herds, patches of hair are rubbed off some of the animals. Chances are these cattle have lice.

Lice are one of the most common pests of cattle and account for the loss of many pounds of beef and milk. Cattle lice can be controlled. If your cattle are lousy, do something about it.

County Agent Larry Best points out spraying cattle during the winter months is a bit hazardous. It's an easy way to give cattle colds and pneumonia. Better dust a and play safe.

USE 10 PER CENT DDT dust on beef cattle, 10 per cent methoxychlor, one per cent lindane or one per cent rotenone on dairy or beef cattle.

Apply about six ounces of dust to each mature animal with any available duster; brush or rub the dust into the hair.

A second treatment in 14 to 18 days is usually necessary, since dusting is not as effective as spraying.

Dome dusts come ready to use, others will have to be diluted, Best said.

Some companies formulate two or more insecticides which work very well.

In all cases check the directions on the label and be sure of the strength of the material you purchase.

These materials are poisonous; handle with care, treat them with respect. Do not contaminate feed, containers or water with the insecticides.

Use caution, but get after the lice.

MUCH THE WORSE for wear, Paul Gonzales, 33, is shown in Bridgeview hospital, Chicago, after being mauled enthusiastically by passengers on a Chicago bus. Gonzales reportedly boarded the bus as a would-be bandit, told driver Robert Koehler not to let anyone off. After a 17-minute ride Koehler slammed on the brakes, with Gonzales crashing into the windshield. Then passengers who had missed stops got busy. (International)

Miner, Moose Die In Battle

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—The body of a 70-year-old miner, a dead cow moose and an empty, broken rifle were found on a lonely trail 15 miles north of here yesterday, mute evidence of a bitter woodland battle.

U. S. marshal's deputies theorized that Lawrence Magnusia was attacked by the moose after shooting it emptied his rifle in an attempt to down the moose, then broke the weapon hitting the animal. Magnusia then died himself, the victim of wounds suffered in the struggle or by a heart attack from exertion.

He Wouldn't Set A Good Example

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The appointment of Joaquin Tejeda as honorary inspector of traffic police has been canceled. Police Chief Antonio Gomez Velasco said Tejeda had parked too often in forbidden zones and ignored too many stop signs.

Critical Newspaper Shuts Up Shop

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—El Dia, an independent Liberal newspaper highly critical of President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra's government, has shut up shop after a court ordered its equipment attached to cover back social security payments.

Lt. Col. Maria Jaramillo, editor of the 40-year-old publication, said yesterday he had locked up the plant and the equipment would be taken only by force. He declared he had offered other properties to satisfy the debt but they were rejected on the grounds that the order specified seizure of the equipment.

Tests Of Skull In Lab May Solve Mystery

Wealthy Danish Girl
Said Buried Alive,
Then Slain In Coffin

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (U)—A moldering skull still covered with blonde hair has been sent to a laboratory for tests to prove that Giertrud Birgitte Bodenhoff—one of 18th-century Europe's richest women—really was buried alive, then killed by grave robbers 155 years ago.

The skull and a convulsively twisted skeleton were found Monday after 10 days of digging, scraping and brushing in a caved-in vault in Copenhagen's Assistens Cemetery. Medical experts said they almost certainly were the remains of the rich beauty.

Giertrud's death is the subject of an old horror story that has sent shivers up and down generations of Danish spines. The ancient tale claims that she was buried in a state of suspended animation—by mistake after an overdose of narcotics—and later slain by grave robbers who sought to steal her jewelry.

The almost intact skull, uncovered by Police Constable Theodor A. Binnehal, an amateur archeologist, had a slightly underhanging jaw. Contemporary paintings indicate that Giertrud's jaw was a bit that way.

Surgeons and dentists who slithered down into the vault agreed the skull belonged to a woman about 19 years old at the time of her death. Giertrud was 19 when she was buried.

The position of the skull and the skeleton indicated that she really had been murdered in her coffin. The skeleton was partly turned over and the thigh bones and spine bent convulsively back as if the young woman had been writhing in agony at the time of death.

The skull was found face downward, although undoubtedly the woman had been buried on her back. There also was a distinct dent in the brow as if it were hit by some sharp instrument.

The old tale claims that Giertrud was awakened by pain when one of the grave robbers yanked violently at an earring she was wearing. She sat up in her coffin begging for help, but the ghoul raped her and clubbed her with a spade.

Surgeons hope that X-ray tests, to be started today, will furnish final proof of Giertrud's after-burial murder.

Fortune Hidden In Wooden Leg?

SYDNEY, Australia (U)—The public trustee's office today ordered exhumation of Scotsman Donald McDonald's body to determine if a small fortune is cached in his wooden leg.

Relatives in Scotland believe the 56-year-old seaman hid his life's savings there and they requested that the body be exhumed. But undertaker Bruce Maurer, who supervised the burial in April, 1951, said he didn't know whether the leg was buried with McDonald.

Estate Listed

CLEVELAND (U)—Attorney Harry F. Payer, who died last October at 77, left an estate valued at $716,920, court records show. The bulk of the estate goes to his widow, Florence, 72. Payer's real estate holdings included Middle Bass Island in Lake Erie.

Sokolsky's These Days

The committee has an exceptionally well-informed counsel, Julius Cahn. The Internal Security Committee is a subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee. Its chairman may be Senator William Jenner. Its present counsel is Robert Morris, one of the ablest men in this field of investigation.

Finally, there is the Committee on Expenditures in Executive Departments, the principal investigating committee of the Congress, of which Senator McCarthy is chairman.

Its counsel is Roy Cohn, who in the Department of Justice proved himself to be one of the most competent investigators of Communist activity in the United States. A combination of Morris and Cohn cannot be beaten.

The greatest loss to the country, from this standpoint, is that the Republican victory eliminated Senator Pat McCarran from the chairmanship of the Internal Security Committee where he is most needed to care for unfinished business. Also the knowledge and capacity of Senator Homer Ferguson ought not to be lost in the reshuffling of committees.

What is most needed is a high policy decision limiting the number of committees engaged in this activity and allocating their fields of work. There should be no competitive investigating as that would help the subversives who could find a favorable committee to which to present their cases, as was done in the instance of the Tydings Committee.

Further, it would be politically stupid for any Republicans to gang

Landlord Dislikes Treasure Hunt

MEXICO CITY (U)—Elpidio Gonzalez Avila has gone to jail on charges of damaging private property. His landlord said Elpidio dug such a deep hole in the floor of his ground floor apartment that part of a house wall fell in.

Elpidio said he was digging for buried treasure and would pay for the damage when he found the treasure.

up on Senator Joe McCarthy either by competitive investigations or by withholding funds. That might produce the assumption that no investigation is really wanted.

Both games were similar in playing style, with the eventual winners taking early leads and protecting them throughout the encounter.

Two scorers during the evening's play were Jim Weaver and Marvin Spangler of the Hedges quintet, each with 22 points. Ken Reid scored 21 for the McFarlands; Co. 1 was paced by Don Olney with 20 points, and Bowser's 16 counters were tops for the Farmers' Exchangers.

Demaret Sneaks In To Win Tourney

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The spotlight was on the big threesome of Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson and Lloyd Mangrum, but when payoff time came, the man in the center of the stage was Jimmy Demaret.

Such was the scene Wednesday when smiling Jimmy won the "Battle of the Texans" and the $10,000 Thunderbird Country Club Invitational golf tournament.

Demaret captured the 34-hole special event with scores of 69-65-67-201, which was 15 strokes under par for the 6,300-yard course.

DeMarco To Miss Herman Match

BOSTON (AP)—A sprained ankle suffered doing road work will keep New York lightweight Paddy DeMarco out of his scheduled nationally televised boxing bout with Babe Herman of Los Angeles at Boston Arena Saturday night.

Replacing DeMarco will be Harold (Baby Face) Jones of Detroit in the 10-round.

Rihl Connects On Difficult 7-10 Split

A second spectacular bowling achievement for this year took place Wednesday night during league games in Moose Alleys.

Les Rihl, rolling for the Eschelmann's team, connected on the exceedingly difficult 7-10 split to make a spare out of a usual nine-pin mark.

Rihl bounced the 7-pin from the boards across the alley into the 10-pin for the outstanding shot.

Unlike Mrs. Harold Leist, who was the only other kegler this year to turn the trick, Rihl did not pitch forward into a dead faint.

After all, he had been meaning to do it when he lined up for the shot, hadn't he?

Garver Offered $25,000 Salary

DETROIT (AP)—Ned Garver, if his arm is good, will get a chance to earn the same estimated $25,000 he was paid last year.

The Detroit Tigers announced Wednesday Garver had signed a 1953 contract, but General Manager Charlie Gehringer disclosed it was a provisional contract.

It called for him to take a cut in salary "until we discover if his pitching arm has recovered," said Gehringer. Garver, who won 20 games for the last place St. Louis Browns in 1951, sat out most of the 1952 season in Detroit with a sore arm.

Rio Shuns Big Benefit In Garden

RIO GRANDE (AP)—Newt Oliver, Rio Grande College coach, says he is not shipping Clarence (Bevo) Francis, the nation's leading scorer, and the Rio Grande team to New York for a March of Dimes benefit.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis announced Wednesday in New York that Rio Grande would meet St. Francis College of Brooklyn March 13.

"We are playing three games for the polio fund," Oliver said. "We think that is more than a fair contribution. How many other college teams in the country are even donating receipts from one game?"

The high-point producing school plays Cincinnati Bible Seminary at the University of Dayton field house tonight and Mountain State College of West Virginia at Zanesville Saturday. Both games will benefit the March of Dimes, as did a Jan. 12 game with Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

Oliver also said he did not think Rio Grande would keep its date with Cedarville College Feb. 1. Cedarville used a stall against Rio Grande Tuesday, to the disgust of paying patrons.

"The boys don't want to play Cedarville again and neither do I," Oliver said. "Our contract calls for a $75 forfeiture fee and we are seriously thinking of sending them the check."

Rihl Connects On Difficult 7-10 Split

A second spectacular bowling achievement for this year took place Wednesday night during league games in Moose Alleys.

Les Rihl, rolling for the Eschelmann's team, connected on the exceedingly difficult 7-10 split to make a spare out of a usual nine-pin mark.

Rihl bounced the 7-pin from the boards across the alley into the 10-pin for the outstanding shot.

Unlike Mrs. Harold Leist, who was the only other kegler this year to turn the trick, Rihl did not pitch forward into a dead faint.

After all, he had been meaning to do it when he lined up for the shot, hadn't he?

OSU Entomologist Tells Of County's Insect Problems

Crop Rotation Best Way To Control Pests

Corn And Wheat Crops Aided By Proper Planting

T. H. Parks, extension entomologist of Ohio State University, led a discussion on "Prevention and Control of Common Farm Insect Pests" at an extension meeting held Tuesday in Pickaway County courthouse.

Dr. Parks pointed out crop rotation such as is usually practiced in Pickaway County is one of the best means known of preventing insect damage to crops.

Common insects affecting corn in the county are the corn borer, corn root worm and beetle, corn aphids, wire worms and sod web-worm.

Corn root worms and beetles become a problem when field corn is grown in the same field continuously. Root worms and beetles are most easily controlled by rotation of crops, since corn is the only crop they like.

CORN BORERS are being controlled by planting resistant Ohio Hybrids and observing the corn planting dates of May 10 to May 20. Corn aphids are likewise being controlled by planting resistant Ohio Hybrids.

Corn borer infestation has been greatest where hybrids of unknown quantities and corn has been planted extremely early (May 1) or late (last of May or 1st of June).

The use of insecticides to control corn borer in field corn in Pickaway County has not been and is not practical unless borer population increases appreciably over present expectations.

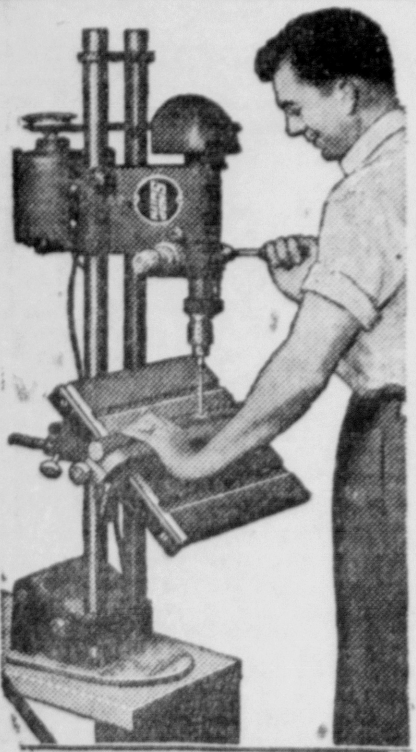

It appears resistant hybrids and observance of planting dates can control them. Winter plowing is the present best known means of controlling wireworms and sod webworms. The plowing exposes them to freezing and kills them.

It was pointed out by the specialist that for many years observance of the fly-free date for wheat seeding has controlled the Hessian Fly in Pickaway County and will continue to do so. Fly-free date is October 2.

PARKS POINTED OUT also that spittle bugs are now recognized as the major pest of clover and alfalfa. Last year this pest did more damage to the meadows and pastures of Pickaway County than ever before.

They are easily controlled by spraying meadows and pastures the last week of April or the first week of May with benzene hexachloride or toxaphene.

Last year farmers reported increases in yields of meadows and pastures of from 25 to 50 percent where spittle bugs were controlled. Aphids are one of our greatest pests of canning peas, according to Dr. Parks. They are easily controlled by spraying with parathion, which is the best known insecticide for their control.

Small grain contamination from weevils, rats and mice and birds is and will be a problem in the sale of grain for milling purposes, he added.

The pure food and drug act enforcement is cracking down on grain that has been visited by the above pests.

Cleaning bins thoroughly and spraying with DDT before harvest and making grain bins bird-proof and rat-proof are going to be musts if the stored grain is to be moved on for milling purposes.

This is not only true for farm storage bins, but for local elevators as well.

The next extension meeting will be at 1:30 p. m. next Tuesday, when results of four years of fertilizer demonstrations in the county, and "how much fertilizer can I afford to use," will be discussed. Everyone is invited.

County Doubles Purchases Of Defense Bonds

Seventy-five of the 88 Ohio counties reported increased sales of Series E and H defense bonds during the last month of 1952 and gave the state a dollar gain of $4,928,321 over sales of E bonds during December.

Judge William D. Radcliff, chairman of the Pickaway County defense bond committee, reported sales of the two bonds in Pickaway County during the month were $35,616 and compare to E Bond sales of $17,826 of the previous year.

In the 12-month period, Ohio sales of E and H bonds showed monthly increases except for one month, which was November, Radcliff said.

In May, the Treasury Department announced changes in the Series E bond, raising the interest rate from 2.9 to three per cent, and in June, the new current income Series H Bond was introduced.

Officials of the Ohio staff of the defense bonds division predicted that monthly sales of E and H bonds would continue to rise in 1953.

Actual dollar sales of Series E and H bonds in the state during December were $23,449,407, and compare to E bond sales of $18,521,086 for the same month last year.
